THE WEATHER

For Boston and vicinity: Fair to-day and to-morrow; light winds.

High water, 4:42 a. m. and 5:00 p. m.

HEARST'S

BOSTON AMERICAN

THE TWENTIETH CENTURY NEWSPAPER

LATEST AFTERNOON EDITION

VOL. 2—No. 283. 10 PAGES BOSTON, TUESDAY, JANUARY 2, 1906. 10 PAGES PRICE ONE CENT.

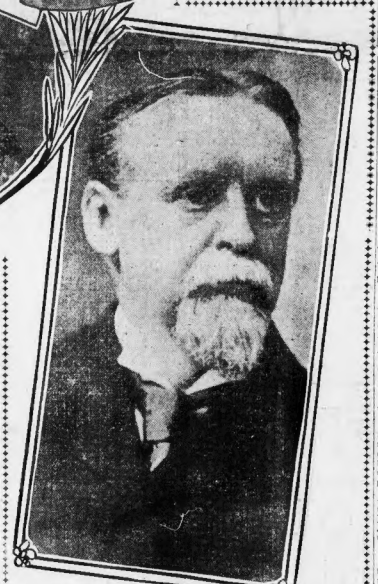
Copyright 1905, by the New England Newspaper Publishing Company.

BOSTON AUTHORESS VICTIM OF MYSTERIOUS TRAGEDY

Inquest on Mrs. Chase To-morrow to Trace POISON FOR WOMAN

RICH WOMAN SUICIDE?

MRS. CHASE.



DR. WILLIAM F. WHITNEY.

Mrs. Emma Isabel Peabody, Noted Writer and Prominent in Society, with an Income of $15,000 a Year, Found in New York Apartment with Bullet in Brain.

Wealthy and apparently happy, and surrounded with all the luxuries that money can buy, Mrs. Emma Isabel Peabody, daughter of Mrs. E. D. Leavitt of No. 376 Washington street, Brookline, lies dead with a bullet in her brain in her sumptuous apartments a No. 74 West Sixty-ninth street, New York, slain by her own hand.

Why this beautiful and accomplished woman, a favorite in literary and social circles, should seek to end her own life, is a problem which is puzzling the police department of New York. The coroner has ordered a thorough investigation, believing that in the mysterious death of this woman may be hidden something demanding police attention.

Mrs. Peabody committed suicide in a highly melodramatic manner. She donned many of her jewels, worth a small fortune, and scattered others about the top of her dressing table. Then she took a revolver and stood before a mirror. She took careful aim and sent the bullet crashing into her brain.

Although the police are reasonably sure Mrs. Peabody was a suicide, the absence of motive and the fact that Mrs. Peabody had arranged to go to Europe this month with her friend, Mrs. Parker, and Miss Carruthers, a trained nurse, have led them to probe the matter more thoroughly.

An extraordinary feature, in the minds of the police, is that although Mrs. Parker says she was near enough to the room in which the woman died to be attracted by the smell of powder, she did not hear the explosion of the cartridge., which was of thirty-two caliber.

Investigation Ordered.

Coroner Shea was brought to the house by a telephone call, and after looking into the situation, ordered the police of the West Sixty-eighth Street Station to investigate the case.

The body of Mrs. Peabody, when she was found unconscious on the floor of her room, was adorned with jewels worth a small fortune.

Engaged in a room at the other end of the apartment, Mrs. Parker did not hear the fatal shot, and only after detecting a peculiar odor, which afterward turned out to be smoke following the discharge of the revolver, did she discover the tragedy. The dead woman was stretched on the floor with a bullet wound in her right temple.

The doctors who saw the body, one of whom knew the woman well, could give no motive for the suicide. Mrs. Peabody has been suffering from hysteria brought on by over indulgence at a late dinner the night before.

Mrs. Peabody had occupied the apartment where she died for two years and according to her neighbors was a woman of situation and good breeding. She lived in the best possible style. Before her marriage she was Emma Isabel Leavitt, of Brookline. She is a niece of Mrs. Geor. Williams, a wealthy woman residing at the Hotel Vendome, whose husband [illegible] wedding manufacturer at No. 702 Chard[illegible] friends have heard her speak [illegible] of rich relatives in Bos[illegible] England cities. Once [illegible] years ago, it is said [illegible] to her brother

Column 1

HOW DID 'MRS. JACK' GET $50,000 'OLD MASTER'

FAMOUS GIORGIONE LOST IN ITALY IS FOUND IN HER BOSTON MUSEUM.

In the Titian room of Mrs. "Jack" Gardner's Fenway palace, looked upon as the greatest treasure in all her magnificent art collection, is the famous Giorgione painting, "Christ Bearing the Cross," which mysteriously disappeared from the Loschi in Vicenza, Italy, and the loss of which has just been discovered, although it is said to have been in Mrs. Gardner's possession for five years.

Even more mysterious than the disappearance from Italy of the stolen one which passed into the possession of J. Pierpont Morgan and which was later returned to Rome by him, is the disappearance from the Loschi Palace of this "old master," Mrs. Gardner is said to have paid upwards of $50,000 for the painting, but it Italy it is priceless.

A dispatch from Rome announcing the discovery that the painting is missing, states that art circles in Italy are greatly excited over the matter and that a right investigation has been started to ascertain when and how it disappeared.

It is believed that the reason the loss was not discovered sooner is that the Italian Government believed it was safely guarded in the beautiful old city of Vicenza and also that, until very recently, no complete list of the treasures in Mrs. Gardner's palace was made public.

One of Seven Known. Works.

In the November number of the New England Magazine, the leading article was one by Mary Augusta Milliken on "The Art Treasures of Fenway Court." The article is the first detailed account of the contents of the collection, and it mentions, as the most valuable painting there, the Giorgione "Christ Bearing the Cross."

"This painting," declares the article, "is one of seven pictures which all critics agree upon as being indisputably the work of Giorgione, the contemporary of the first half of Titian's long life."

In years past there have been so many objects of art [illegible] or otherwise removed from Italy [illegible] government forbidding any more [illegible] and provided a severe penalty [illegible] for disposal in any manner whatever. Because of this, whoever obtained the painting for Mrs. Gardner did it with the utmost secrecy. So cleverly was it done that it was not missed from the Loschi palace until the published list of Mrs. Gardner's treasures brought it to the notice of the authorities.

Life of Giorgione.

Giorgione, who was one of the most famous painters in history and whose name, which signifies "George the Big," was given him because of his greatness of mind and his talent, lived from 1477 to 1511. His parents were peasants and his boyhood was passed in the Venetian Alps. There he became imbued with the love for [illegible] which shows itself so plainly in [illegible] paintings.

His career extended over only fifteen years, but in that time he revolutionized the Venetian schools. Titian, who followed him, succeeded to many of the triumphs that Giorgione was denied on account of his early death.

To Giorgione have been attributed pictures in the public and private galleries of Europe in far greater number than [illegible] short life would have rendered possible. Scores of works credited to him were re[illegible] by painters.

There are, however, a number of [illegible] of the authenticity of which there [illegible] no doubt, and foremost among these [illegible] the one which is now creating so much [illegible] the "Christ Bearing the Cross."

TOOK MORPHINE; JUMPED IN R[illegible]

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Jan. 2.—Will[illegible] Sutherland, a Boston man, who came [illegible] for his health some time ago, after [illegible] a dose of morphine, jumped or fe[illegible] the bay. Bystanders on the wh[illegible] standing in the water and say[illegible] after floating past. On being [illegible] overland, was dead. He [illegible] and he had [illegible] a check [illegible] sailing [illegible]

HARVARD EXPERT TO REPORT ON CONTENTS OF DEAD WOMAN'S STOMACH.

District Attorney Peters, who is probing the death of Mrs. Jennie P. Chase at Swampscott, whose brothers are fighting over her million-dollar fortune, otherwise refused, by Dr. Horace Chase, her husband, to make rigid inquiry into the presence of poison at the Chase home.

It will be the subject of the examination by some of the witnesses to-morrow. Dr. Wesham, the medical examiner, who was with the Chase family physician, may be recalled to be asked whether or not he used arsenic in his treatment of Mrs. Chase after she was found unconscious, presumably overcome by gas, on the floor of her home.

On the information received at to-morrow's hearing will determine whether an inquest will be made.

Then Dr. Horace Chase was being examined at the inquest held at Lynn before Judge Berry yesterday he was warned by the District Attorney that whatever he might be said in other proceedings.

Wife Had Arsenic for Rats.

Dr. Chase answered him:

"I have nothing to conceal. This court is entitled to know all I know. I shall state the matter as fully as desired. It is my wish to hold back nothing."

"Did you have any arsenic in your possession?" asked the District-Attorney.

"No," the doctor replied.

"Suppose I should say that arsenic was found in the remains of Mrs. Jennie P. Chase, how would you account for it?"

"In answering such a question," the doctor replied, "I should say she had the arsenic. In fact, I know that she did handle arsenic which she had purchased for the avowed purpose of killing rats. I myself saw her mixing what she said was arsenic and she told me she intended to kill rats with it."

Notes to Be Examined.

Handwriting experts will enter into the case. Two notes said to have been written by Mrs. Chase just before her death have been submitted to the experts with samples of Mrs. Chase's writing in letters to her friends. Mr. Peters founds a discrepancy in the notes. One expressed a wish that she be buried in Swampscott cemetery, while the other desired that her body be cremated.

Dr. Whitney of Harvard, who examined Mrs. Chase's stomach, will be a witness at the hearing to-morrow.

DECREE DEATH OF CZAR AT SECRET MEETING

REPORTED DECISION OF REVOLUTIONISTS AT SESSION ON SWISS FRONTIER.

By Publishers' Press.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Jan. 2.—Many Russian revolutionary leaders have arrived here within the last fortnight. From one of these refugees the correspondent of the Publishers' Press learned the details of a secret meeting held two nights ago, at which the revolutionists decreed the death of the Czar and considered other revolutionary plans.

According to this revolutionary leader, one of the revolutionists met secretly in a deserted farmhouse on the Franco-Swiss frontier, the place where the assassination of former Minister of the Interior Von Plehve was planned. The meeting began at 11 o'clock at night and continued for several hours. There was a heated discussion, owing to the fact that some of the less militant chiefs offered moderate counsels and objected to resorting to drastic and bloody measures.

The majority, however, expressed themselves in favor of meeting force with force, and a vote of censure was adopted against one section of reformers from the large cities, who advised the workmen to give up the strikes and arrange compromises with the Government.

A resolution was finally adopted to send a demand to Premier Witte calling on him to resign and permit the national Duma to begin its work.

The vote to decree the death of the Czar was taken after a violent debate and was carried by a large majority. Amid a dead silence all of the chiefs except ten signed the death warrant of the monarch, which was similar in terms to the death sentence decreed against von Plehve.

A committee of three was then appointed to select "the instrument for carrying out the order."

PERSONS IN SWAMPSCOTT DEATH MYSTERY.

Woman whose tragic end has precipitated sensational contest for million-dollar estate, and Harvard expert whose report on her death may add still further to mystery surrounding the case.

TALKED OVER 'PHONE FOR FIRST TIME AT 91

CLARMONT, N. H., Jan. 2.—Mrs. Nancy T. Fisher, who is ninety-one years old, has just talked for the first time in her life over a telephone.

She was called up by relatives in Winchester, Mass., over a hundred miles away, who wished to extend New Year's congratulations.

REPORT DEPEW ILL, TO RESIGN

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—A report was current both in New York and in Albany last evening that Senator Depew is seriously ill. The business and political strain under which he has labored recently lent color to the rumor, which became the matter of wide interest.

A persistent rumor was current that Mr. Depew was about to resign from the United States Senate.

OCKEFELLER, SOUGHT IN BIG OIL SUIT, SKIPS ...Y ON GOLF LINKS

ssouri, Unable to Bait Magnate Back to New York, May Send Commission South for Him.

EW YORK, Jan. 2.—John D. Rockefeller's admiration for the game of golf is his liking for the mild climate of Aiken, Summerville, S. C., are causing the State of Missouri's representatives in New York considerable bit of worry. The Standard Oil magnate is enjoying life immensely at his winter pastime in the South, while the representatives are making busy preparations for the taking of testimony in this city in their suits against the Standard Oil Company.

The beginning of he hearing is but a few days distant, but Mr. Rockefeller is still crying "Fore," and clearing the bunkers and walking his legs nearly off on the turf of the links at Summerville. And his testimony is wanted, so the lawyers are wondering how to get him back so they can serve a subpoena on him.

Henry Wollman, in whose office at No. 74 Broadway, the hearing is to be held, declares that the Standard Oil officials had promised to accept service, but very few of them have done so, and, in fact, they are evading the process servers. John D. Rockefeller, he believes, does not intend to allow himself to be served if possible, and will prolong his vacation in North Carolina.

This means that it may be necessary to take depositions in other States. If this is decided on a commission will be sent down to see Mr. Rockefeller at Summerville. The others will be sent to various parts of the country to visit other Standard Oil men. The only ones served yet are H. H. Rogers, William G. Rockefeller, nephew of John D., Edward T. Bedford and one or two others. And strategy had to be resorted to. Not one has voluntarily asked for service, as was promised.

All word that comes from Summerville about Mr. Rockefeller indicates that he is in splendid health. Apparently he is content to stay there and let legal matters like the State of Missouri suit take care of themselves.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER AS HE APPEARS FROM LATEST PHOTOGRAP

Two remarkable snapshots taken recently of the ... Standard Oil Magnate, who is now romping ab... golf links at Summerville, N. C. In the picture in which he is caught bareheaded the oil king's wig is shown.

MYSTERIOUS SUICIDE OF NOTED AUTHOR

Continued from First Page.

...y W. Leavitt, who was then in Akron, Ohio.

Was Ill Before Death.

Mrs. Parker said she called on Mrs. Peabody yesterday and arranged to make her home in the apartment. Mrs. Parker told the police that Mrs. Peabody had told her that on Sunday night she had dined late with a party of friends, and that yesterday she was too sick to get out of bed. She was living down in negligee dress when Mrs. Parker reached the house.

Mrs. Parker said the first thing she did was to summon Dr. Mrs. Twigg, who lives ... She then called a messenger boy, who was ... chicken soup. Mrs. Parker ... of the soup to Mrs. Peabody ... after she had ordered it ... again, and Mrs. Parker re... room, thinking Mrs. Pea... to sleep.

...declares, there was a sound ... from Mrs. Peabody's room with ... exclamation of moaning from the woman. ... Mrs. Parker returned to see if ... fifteen minutes later Mrs. Parker ... that she says she thought that Mrs. Peabody had been taking some strong medicine for her nerves.

The odor became very strong, and then Mrs. Parker says she heard Mrs. Peabody breathing very heavily. Finally Mrs. Parker noticed the breathing had stopped, and a complete stillness in Mrs. Peabody's room caused her to go in.

BULLET IN TEMPLE.

Entering the room, she says she almost fell over Mrs. Peabody, who was lying on her right side. Not realizing what had happened, but seeing blood on the woman's wrapper, she called a messenger boy and hurried him for the nearest sedan at No. 22 West Seventy-fifth street. He found the ladies' waiting room in the woman's temple, and said she was dead. Mrs. Parker nearly fainted, she told the police, when the doctor discovered the wound and a revolver lying beside the woman.

Dr. Goldan notified the police of the West Sixty-eighth Street Station.

Mrs. Parker was introduced to Mrs. Peabody, she said, through Miss Lillian Robinson of No. 214 West Eighty-fifth street. Mrs. Peabody and Miss Robinson. It is said, that she felt lonely at times and she wanted a woman companion. Mrs. Robinson then brought Mrs. Parker to her, and arrangements were made two days ago for the women to live together.

It was also learned that Mrs. Robinson and a friend called on Mrs. Peabody early yesterday afternoon and left some time after. Some time she is alleged to have killed herself. Mrs. Peabody died the night before. Mrs. Parker reached the house.

Dr. Frederick C. Kisser, of No. 22 West Fifty-First street, and Coroner Acritelli were called to the house, but Mrs. Parker ... Coroner's counsel ... and ... entered. He could ... induced by no apparent cause. She had a revolver which the physician took from her.

Mrs. Peabody had two splendid saddle horses at Durland's and was devoted to horseback riding.

UNHAPPY MARRIAGE.

Mrs. Peabody was about thirty-seven years old. She was educated at Wellesley college, which, however, she left before graduation on account of ill-health.

Soon after leaving college she met and married Mr. Peabody. They were soon separated. Since the separation Mrs. Peabody has lived a life of luxury. She was wealthy and for many years had lived in New York and supported herself by her pen. She was a brilliant and versatile writer.

The unhappy marriage seemed to have preyed upon her mind, and for months she had been on the verge of nervous prostration. Her physician recently recommended a sea voyage and she had planned for a woman friend to accompany her.

Two or three days ago she wrote to Boston relatives that her heart was troubling her and that they must not be surprised to hear of her death at any time. Mrs. Peabody had no children, and it is not known whether her husband is still living.

"DEATH TO JEWS!" CRY PEOPLE OF WARSAW

BLAMING HEBREWS FOR STRIKE TROUBLES, CITIZENS GATHER FOR MASSACRE.

WARSAW, Poland, Jan. 2.—The discovery of a number of bombs in houses in the Jewish quarter of the city has provoked the people against the Hebrews. Notices have been posted summoning the people to assemble for a massacre of all Jews in the city.

They are accused of provoking the strikes and disturbances and bringing distress to workingmen. The soldiers are being assembled to prevent the killing of the Jews.

Thousands of Russians are marching up and down the streets, shouting "Death to the Jews." No one can tell at what moment the massacre will begin.

WITTE ADVISES CZAR TO GRANT A CONSTITUTION

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 2.—With the breaking up of the revolution into the resistance of small armed bands instead of a concentrated attack on the Czar's rule throughout the Empire, the power of Premier Witte has so increased that today the announcement was made that the Premier is parting with success in his effort to have the Emperor promulgate a moderate constitution.

That this act would be a master stroke leading toward the ultimate pacification of the Empire is the belief of the Premier. He is convinced that when the new popular assembly created by the last edict of the Czar begins its first session it will resolve itself into a constitutional body, acting under an instrument to be drawn up by itself.

If the Czar would grant the constitution now, the Premier thinks, it would head off what would be really a move of the revolutionists to gain the upper hand. The Czar, it is said, is almost ready to grant the constitution as suggested by the Premier.

The fighting against the rebels continues wherever the least sign of resistance against the government makes itself felt. In the Baltic provinces the revolutionists continue to gain converts daily.

They are preparing to make a stand against Count Sollogub, the new governor of the Provinces, who is marching toward this city with a large force of troops. In the southern portion of the Baltic provinces the rebel bands are breaking up and are being pursued by troops.

A report had been received that General Orloff's column of troops in the Baltic provinces has met with severe reverses.

RUTHLESS SLAYING IN MOSCOW BY RUSSIAN TROOPS

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 2.—Much unnecessary firing has taken place in Moscow, the resistance being very small. Admiral Dubassoff ordered Colonel Minn, who was chosen because of his relentless character, to attend to what the governor-general called "liquidating outstanding scores." In consequence, ruthless damage was done to property and much life sacrificed avenging the deeds of the last week.

The government is perfectly well aware of every step taken by the revolutionaries. I know two days ago that the executive committee of the revolutionaries was calling off in Moscow its armed resistance, and had decided that the time had arrived, according to the programme, to place the continuance of the campaign in the hands of the Terrorists' committee, which meant that it was face to face with a series of organized outrages against those most prominent.

The workmen's executive committee, followed by members from Moscow, is planning a bomb and dynamite campaign. The revolutionaries admit 1,200 arrests here, so there were probably many more. In the Baltic provinces armed bands are wandering about destroying properties. Prince Galitzin's property has been destroyed, and that of Baron Meedom of the Dun district.

There is fighting around Mittau, which is surrounded by troops, who are closing in upon the insurgents.

M. Lotinoun, leader of the Union of Unions, has escaped to Switzerland.

BAY STATE MAN IS DEAD IN GUATEMALA

LEWISTON, Me., Jan. 2.—Information has been received here of the death of Frank C. Dennis at Livingston, Guatemala, while on his way home from South American. Mr. Dennis's home is in Medford, Mass. His widow is a daughter of ex-Governor Alonzo Garcelon of this State.

For several years he conducted a large fruit business in Guatemala and was accomplished in South American languages.

DISPATCHER'S ERROR CAUSES WRECK

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 2.—Two trainmen were killed and two injured in a headon collision between "Big Four" freight trains near the Little Miami Railroad crossing, four miles west of Columbus. Oversight on the part of the train dispatcher at Springfield is held by railway men to be responsible for the wreck.

BOSTON STOCKS.

	Opening	11 a.m.
Amalgamated	109¾	109¾
American Telephone	127	127
American Pneumatic	12¾	12¾
American Sugar	132	132
American Zinc	15¾	15¾
Boston Con.	23¾	23¾
Centennial	22¾	22¾
Copper Range	84¾	84¾
Dominion Iron	32¾	32¾
Granby	10	10
Greene Con.	37	37¼
Isle Royale	20	20
Mass.	19¾	19¾
Mexican	17¾	17¾
Michigan Coal	12	12
Nevada Con.	12	12
North Butte	88	88
Old Dominion	43¾	43¾
Osceola	109	109
Parrot	45¾	46
Pullman	177	177
United States Steel	42¾	42¾
United States Steel pref.	96	96
United States Mining	37	37

	Chicago, Great West.	23	23¾
	Reading	39¾	39¾
	Colorado Fuel & Iron	56	56¾
	Erie	25	24¾
	Louisville & Nashville	152¾	153
	Missouri Pacific	96¾	96¾
	Northern Pacific	132	132
	Norfolk & Western	85¾	85¾
	Ontario & Western	41¾	41¾
	Pennsylvania	141	141¼
	Southern Railway	30¾	30¾
	Texas Pacific	36¾	36¾
	T. C. & Iron	72	72
	Union Pacific	130¾	130¾
	Wabash	21¾	21¾
	U. S. Steel preferred	107	107

NEW YORK STOCKS.

	Opening	11 a.m.
Amalgamated Copper	111¾	109¾
Am. Car & Fdy.	47¾	47¾
American Locomotive	37¾	37¾
American Smelting	169½	169½
American Sugar	132	132
Anaconda	296	296
Atchison	107¾	107¾
Baltimore & Ohio	113¾	113¾
Brooklyn Transit	89	89¾
Canadian Pacific	174¾	174¾
Chesapeake & Ohio	56¾	56¾

TUCKER FACES DOOM OF DEATH WITHIN WEEK

Charles Louis Tucker, convicted of the murder of Mabel Page, will this week be brought into the court at East Cambridge, where the jury rendered their verdict against him, to have Judge Sherman pronounce the sentence which the law declares he must be imposed for murder in the first ...—death in the electric chair.

The Supreme Court of the State has decided against him. It is the second time this decision adverse to him have had to be rendered. ... to save the young man's life turned ... by the courts.

Ground of New Evidence.

...ney still have other legal moves they ...make to stay the execution. That will ... the subject of one petition which they ...sent to the Superior Court, asking ... trial. ... petition the court ... presiding ... which ... the jury ... ground that a Federal question is involved, whether or not the young man's rights under the constitution were disregarded when the officers entered his home and compelled him to give up the evidence which was used against him when he was brought to trial.

This is the question which may go to the United States Supreme Court, because the appeal is being considered by that body may long delay the carrying of execution which will be passed within the week.

Tucker Still Hopeful.

In his cell at the East Cambridge Jail young Tucker has received news of another defeat. He was not cast down. With the story of what they had failed to accomplish through the Supreme Court his attorneys told him of the other efforts they were making in his behalf. They left him still hopeful for the future.

He is confident, said his counsel to the BOSTON AMERICAN to-day, "under all circumstances he retains his cheerful equanimity and looks hopeful that some way of doing for him will turn out at right for the end."

Attorney General Parker and Valey & Jones, counsel for Tucker, received the decision of the Supreme Court yesterday afternoon. It was delivered them by Chief Justice Marcus Knowlton. The Chief Justice said that the petition had been carefully considered by the full bench and denied unanimously.

The counsel had applied for a rehearing of the case on two exceptions which were among those overruled by the full bench last November.

One was the exception to the evidence introduced at the trial relating to Tucker's pecuniary condition, his poverty before the murder, and the fact that he had money afterward, the defense claiming that there was no evidence that ... was taken from the Page home. ... ruled that

OLD CROW RYE.

REAL WHISKEY

Quality and Quantity

PURE—OLD—MELLOW

SOLD EVERYWHERE IN THESE BOTTLES ONLY.

H. B. Kirk & Co., Sole Bottlers, New York. | Distillery Frankfort, Ky.

HONEST WHISKEY $2 PER GALLON

...ANGELES CO.

...Summer St., Boston.

BOSTON PRINTING AND ADVERTISING COMPANY

63 STATE STREET

Does Work that Increases a Man's Business

Catalogs, Hotel Booklets, Etc., Designed, Written and Printed

—MONOTYPE COMPOSITION.—

TELEPHONE SERVICE

No matter what your telephone requirements are, there is a class of service to meet them. The reductions in rates during the past three years have placed the telephone within the reach of everyone.

Metropolitan Rates from $30.00 up

Suburban Rates . from $24.00 up

Let us know what your telephone needs are and we will tell you what class of service will fill them.

For Full Particulars Call MAIN 6090

Contract Department, 101 Milk Street

New England Telephone & Telegraph

PUBLIC NOTICE.

DYSPEPSIA EASILY CURED

when you go at it right. Natural digestives like Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets relieve the stomach ... all work and enable it to ... health and strength. Even ... will find that there is nothing ... Dyspepsia and all stomach ... All druggists.

MISS GRIGSB[Y] ...NORED IN MILLIONAIRE YERKES' WILL

Ethel Yerkes and Gladys Unger Also Cease to Draw Incomes at His Death.

No Contest, as Property, Except Public Bequests, is Left to Family.

Copyright, 1905, by American-Journal-Examiner.

Reproduction of Any Part of This Article Forbidden.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—The will of Charles T. Yerkes will be read to-day in the family mansion at No. 864 Fifth avenue. A summary of the contents of this document, which has been awaited with such keen interest, is in the possession of The American, and is given herewith. An estate conservatively estimated at $15,000,000 by Mr. Yerkes's counsel, Clarence S. Knight of Chicago, is disposed of.

Emilie Grigsby, the young woman on whom the railroad magnate showered wealth, and who is believed to be building for her magnificent and mysteriously constructed house on Park avenue, does not become a beneficiary under the will, either directly or indirectly.

Gladys Unger, the young daughter of Frank Unger, formerly of Boston, but now of this city, who lives in a mansion in the aristocratic residential section of London, England, to which Yerkes gave her, is not provided with a penny to maintain it.

Ethel Yerkes Also Ignored.

Ethel Yerkes, a girl of twenty-one, said to be a niece of the dead man, upon whom riches had been lavished, and for whom he understood to be in Dresden, Germany, is also totally ignored in the will. Because of the reports that Miss Yerkes was the Yerkes's favorite, and that he went to Europe to see her in May last, immediately following the making of his will, this bit of information is considered exceedingly interesting by his friends.

Summing up the situation, Miss Grigsby, Miss Unger and Miss Yerkes have had their rich incomes suddenly cut off. The significance of this can be imagined when it is known that the trio had received permission to draw on the railway man of unlimited sums. That privilege was stopped the day Mr. Yerkes died. Contrary to expectations and to the disgust of some prominent lawyers, who looked forward to participation in what promised to be the biggest will contest ever fought, there will be no fight in court.

Mr. Yerkes was extremely liberal to his wife, from whom he had been estranged for fifteen years. He exhibited the same generosity toward the children whom he had by his first wife, who divorced him, and who is now living in Philadelphia. The children, Charles E. Yerkes and Mrs. Belle Rondenelle, returned with Mrs. Yerkes from Greenwood Cemetery after the funeral yesterday, and there for the first time they learned in an indirect way what the will provided.

The greatest satisfaction is said to prevail among the members of the family in view of the general outline given as to what the will contained. The document is in the possession of Attorney Knight of Chicago, counsel for Mr. Yerkes, and will be read to the family in detail this morning. They will be present, besides members of the family and Lawyer Knight, Mrs. Yerkes's representative, said to be Joseph B. Redding, a lawyer, of N. Broadway, and Samuel Untermyer, who had done much of Mr. Yerkes's law work in this city.

No Clash Over Probating.

Upon authority it can be stated that there will be no family clash over the probating of the will. It was definitely decided after the funeral yesterday that Mr. Yerkes's legal residence was in Chicago, and the will is to be taken there by Lawyer Knight for probate. The lawyer will be accompanied to Chicago by the widow, for, if it is understood, is named as one of the coexecutors of the will.

The Yerkes fortune comprises extensive realty holdings in Chicago and London, below the gunnion on Fifth avenue. This itself for the use of the widow during her lifetime, and upon her death the property, whether with the valuable art collection and other furnishings, is bequeathed to the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

There are a few other public bequests, but none of such importance.

Mr. Yerkes had vast real estate holdings in Chicago, but the only New York realty worthy of mention was the Fifth avenue home. His London realty is also extensive. A great share of his wealth is in the London subway system.

Mr. Knight made this statement last night:

Mr. Yerkes, in making his will and distributing his millions, evinced that, so far as his vast wealth was concerned, he was leaving his father, a striking husband and a philanthropist. His will dumfounded those who had expected to find that he had bequeathed money or realty to persons outside of his family.

"I drew the will for Mr. Yerkes just before he was abroad for the last time. Notwithstanding the fact that he was estranged from his wife at the time, he recognized her in the document as if there was not the slightest break in their domestic transacts.

"Mrs. Yerkes became reconciled with her husband during Mr. Yerkes's sojourn at the Waldorf-Astoria, and she was told by him that he considered that the property provided for in the will. I really believe that Mr. Yerkes had the slightest idea of the revision that he did in his will, he would [illegible] his fatal illness have called a lawyer and made a codicil, taking care of his wife and children."

Detectives at Funeral.

Five carriages, two of them occupied by private detectives, followed the body of Charles T. Yerkes yesterday afternoon to the last resting place, the serpent mausoleum in Greenwood cemetery.

New York has seldom witnessed a more gay funeral. The dead millionaires, who had boats of friends in life, was hurried to his grave with scant ceremony.

His wife followed the body to the cemetery but halted at the entrance of the mausoleum, refusing to enter. Rigidly she stood while the officials of the church offered prayer.

Only once, and but for an instant, did Mrs. Yerkes betray emotion. As the prayer ended her tall figure swayed and a suppression of grief seemed to convulse her. With one hand she pressed a handkerchief to her eyes and with the other clutched the top of the woman beside her for support.

The scene at the mausoleum was similarly gloomy throughout. Upon the casket [illegible] entered the cemetery at 2 o'clock the sky was overcast and a bleak wind swept the graves.

Few There to Mourn.

There was no curious crowd at the Yerkes tomb, only a dozen or so persons, who had seen spreading flowers on a grave nearby and a cemetery watchman.

The corpse of the millionaire were piled high with wreathed roses, and on the sloping lawn in front a large marquee tent stood in readiness to give emergency shelter to the mourners. But no mourners came. It was probably would have done so had the clouds opened in a rainstorm.

The Yerkes mourners were only eager to get their dead and shrink back out of public view.

CURATES TRANSFERRED.

CLAREMONT, N. H., Jan. 2.—Rev. Fr. [illegible]ard J. Kean, who has been curate at St. Mary's Church here for the past four years, has been transferred to Suncook. Rev. Fr. M. J. Mosher will succeed him.

GUARANTEED CURE FOR PILES. Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles. Druggist will refund money if PAZO OINT. fails to cure you in 6 to 14 days. 50c.

WIDOW OF TRACTION MAGNATE, AS SHE LOOKED WHEN MARRIED

$100,000 SUIT FOR ALIENATION

Mrs. Flagg Puts High Value on Husband's Affections and Sues Fair Widow.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—A suit for $100,000 damages for alleged alienation of her husband's affections has been begun in the supreme court by Mrs. Katherine Flagg, an exceedingly handsome young woman, six feet tall and of shapely figure, against Mrs. Josephine Curtis, a young and prepossessing widow of considerable wealth.

William Flagg, the husband, is the manager of an automobile company at the Waldorf-Astoria, and she was told by him on Monday that she could have property provided for in the will. I really believe that Mr. Yerkes had the slightest idea of the revision that he did in his will, he would [illegible] his fatal illness have called a lawyer and made a codicil, taking care of his wife and children."

Mrs. Flagg's complaint was filed to-day. She alleges that during most of the time of their living together the defendant has coveted her attentions for herself.

Mrs. Curtis is the widow of a New York merchant. She is said to be engaged in business and out of friendship for the Flaggs gave them opportunities for adding to their income. She denies Mrs. Flagg's allegations and says: "There has always been nothing in my relations with Mr. and Mrs. Flagg save those of employer and employee."

Mrs. Flagg and her husband are now living together. She says she has for eleven years been a devoted wife, and to seek the remedy the laws provide for those who alienate a husband's affections.

BUY LICENSES AND PAY BONUS

Police Board Offers Hotel Men Solution of Their Liquor License Problem.

A formal hearing will be given by the Board of Police at 11:30 to-morrow morning on the petition for new licenses for the Imperial House and Parker's Hotel.

The Police Board has offered a solution of the hotel liquor problem. It is for the hotel men to go into the open market and purchase new licenses, paying what ever bonus may be necessary, and have them cancelled and returned to the Board of Police in the names of the applicants who have advertised their applications for the new licenses for each of the four hotels now under the ban.

The managers of the Hotel Essex when it was first opened were obliged to follow this course.

Licenses ordinarily sell for about $5,000. The license fee for a first class hotel is $2,500.

It is suggested by the board men that a rigid application of the present law would limit the license of nearly every place sold during July to the first of the year, and it is believed that if the new Legislature does not grant some relief, trouble will be made for liquor sellers throughout the State.

TUCKER TO BE SENTENCED

Expected Convicted Murderer of Mabel Page Will Hear His Fate This Week.

Charles L. Tucker will probably hear the sentence of death imposed upon him by Judge Sherman some day this week in East Cambridge court.

Counsel for Tucker in the Supreme Judicial Court has unanimously refused to grant the defense a new trial. Two of the exceptions overruled in November, and also decided against the petition to have the exceptions removed to the Supreme Court for the purpose of adding the testimony bearing upon the loss of money from the Tucker home.

Only one course is now open to the defense so far as the courts of this State are concerned, and that is a petition to the Governor Council for a new trial on the ground of newly discovered evidence which tends to show the innocence of the defendant.

Counsel for Tucker are now preparing the last petition. The new evidence is the testimony being gathered by Attorney Allen of Portsmouth, which it is expected may result in the identification of the Canadian artists as the one Tucker's wife found in Portland.

Ex-Attorney General Parker goes out of office next week and wishes to dispose of all the business that he can. It is expected that he will ask Judge Sherman to sentence Tucker this week. Nothing contrary for the defense might offer would now prevent the announcement of the sentence.

BOND STOPPED; BANKER IN JAIL

J. W. Dickinson, who, with Cashier George M. Foster, of the South Danvers bank, was convicted on March 24, 1903, in connection with the failure of the bank, and who has been out on bail pending a decision on his appeal to the United States Supreme Court since that time, was considered by one of his bondsmen, Bial de Florio of Boston.

Mr. de Florio gave as special reason for his action, other than that did not care to remain longer on the bond, efforts were made to secure a bondsman to take the place of Mr. de Florio, not without success, and Dickinson was escorted to the Charles street jail.

Although found guilty nearly three years ago, this is the first time that Dickinson has been compelled to go to jail.

$70,000 BLAZE, 2 FIREMEN HURT

CLEVELAND, Jan. 2.—The Cleveland Theatre was threatened by flames, the Bradley block, in St. Clair avenue, adjoining the playhouse, being on fire at 4 a. m. to-day, when the theatre authorities succeeded the flames and turned in the alarm. At 4:15 o'clock the flames spread to the connecting into the theatre building. At 5 o'clock the fire was under control, and Joseph Lovemon and the other by Hyman Adelman, were burned out.

The fire started in the shop of the Cleveland Sign Appliance Company on the top floor of the Bradley building.

At 4:30 o'clock two firemen fell down the elevator shaft in the burning building and were seriously injured. Loss estimated at $70,000.

MARK TWAIN TOO FUNNY FOR SICK

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—The British Medical Journal, a leading European authority, in its latest issue declares that English convalescents must avoid Mark Twain as a mental diet. It says:

"Convalescents must not read Mark Twain's books; they not only cheer, but kill outright. Mark Twain's humor is side-splitting laughter and so retard the [illegible] of severed or lacerated parts in the healing process."

But two of New York's foremost physicians, both nerve specialists, one of them Charles Weston Brandenburg, professor of the New York Medical College and Alexander Lambert, a Carleton Simon, former president of the One Hundred Year Club, agree that Mr. Twain as a mental diet can hardly be surpassed.

WILTON ATHLETES TO DANCE ON FRIDAY

Preparations have been completed for the fourth annual ball and dance of the Wilton Athletic Club of Somerville, which will be held in Odd Fellows Hall, Broadway, Somerville, next Friday night. Invitations have been sent to all the managers of prominent baseball clubs in New England.

PAID $7.45 TO WHIP HIS STEP-FATHER

RUTLAND, Vt., Jan. [illegible]—It cost Clarence Rice of Pittsford $7.45 to whip his step-father, a Carleton Simon, former president of the One Hundred Year Club, agree that Mr. Twain as a mental diet can hardly be surpassed.

RUTLAND, Vt., Jan. [illegible]—It cost Clarence Rice of Pittsford $7.45 to whip his step-father, a Carleton Simon, former president of the One Hundred Year Club, agree that Mr. Twain as a mental diet can hardly be surpassed.

M'CALL PAYS $235,000 AS HE QUITS POST

Makes Good His Pledge to Restore Money Paid to Andy Hamilton.

RESIGNATION CONFIRMED

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—Notwithstanding the refusal of John A. McCall and members of his family to discuss the matter, positive information has been obtained that Mr. McCall had resigned the presidency of the New York Life Insurance Company.

With it comes the information that Mr. McCall had already turned over to the company a check for $235,000 covering the moneys that Andrew Hamilton received in 1904 and which are as yet unaccounted for in detail. It was also learned that Alexander E. Orr would probably succeed Mr. McCall as president of the company.

Mr. McCall's resignation was prepared on Saturday and will be submitted to the trustees at their meeting Wednesday.

On the afternoon when the board of the New York Life regarding Mr. McCall's retirement, about which there has been much speculation, it is learned, the plan even trustees were in favor of Mr. McCall remaining at the head of the company while first were opposed to it.

Makes Pledge Good.

Mr. McCall's payment of the $235,000 charged against Andrew Hamilton followed upon the receipt of the report from the New York Life's legislative manager, which John C. McCall brought home from Paris last week. It has already been made known that the Fowler Committee did not consider Hamilton's statement satisfactory as an explanation of his transactions.

Accordingly President McCall has made good his pledge to refund the amount of the Hamilton payments of 1904 irrespective of Hamilton's offer to put up $100,000 pending a final settlement of the account. In view of a final adjustment between Hamilton and the company, it is understood that Mr. McCall will receive from Hamilton whatever amount the latter would otherwise have turned in to the New York Life as the balance due on the $235,000 account. It is understood by Mr. McCall's friends that his motive in paying the full $235,000 was to save the company from the embarrassment of seeming to approve the nature of the Hamilton expenditures if they accepted Hamilton's tender of $100,000.

Jerome Begins His Work.

District Attorney Jerome will to-day begin the serious work of preparing for the prosecution of officers of life insurance companies who have abused their trusts.

It was stated yesterday by a man in a position to know what is going on within the various insurance companies that Mr. Jerome would undoubtedly receive aid from unexpected sources.

He added that before the month was out Mr. Jerome would receive overtures from at least one "squealer" in each of three companies: The Mutual Life, the Provident Savings Life, the Life Association of America and the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association. While no promises of immunity are ever made by the District Attorney to a "squealer," it is the unwritten law in Mr. Jerome's office not to prosecute those who give evidence which enables the prosecution to convict offenders who might otherwise escape punishment.

MANY PRINTING FIRMS YIELD TO WORKMEN

Reports From Entire Country Indicate Partial Victory for 8-Hour Day.

Reports from every part of the country indicate that many printing firms have conceded the eight-hour day demanded by the union printers. Thus the union men have won a partial victory, one of great importance at the very outset of the strike. The strike is supported by a fund of $250,000.

Officers of Typographical Union No. 6 of New York estimate that out of the 8,000 members of the union less than 900 will be obliged to go out on strike. Many of the firms in that city have already granted the eight-hour day demand and little trouble is anticipated. The Typothetae of New York Employing Printers refused to grant the demand so far as they are able, and will thus be forced to establish a temporary home for about 700 non-union printers in an old schoolhouse on West Twenty-third street, where food and meals are provided.

In Philadelphia twenty-four of the 100 printing firms signed the eight-hour day agreement yesterday. There are not many more of the Typothetae, however, and the Employing Printers' Association intends to fight the movement for a shorter workday.

Concessions in Providence.

It was stated at the union headquarters in Providence that some of the best shops had made concessions to the men, and that the indications are that the contest will be a short one. Some of the shops made concessions on wages, but declined to grant eight hours. At one shop where only one man went out, the rest claiming partnership in the concern. About fifty men struck in that city.

The Worcester firms started the men to work this morning. Nothing contrary for the defense might offer would now prevent the announcement of the sentence.

Nine Worcester firms started the men to work this morning on the eight-hour basis.

Lynn is little affected by the strike, as there is only one member of the Typographical Union in that city. That is Fred A. Hall, a non-union office. All of the union job printing offices in Lynn have accepted the new schedule.

Sixty union printers went on strike at Louisville, Ky.

The Jackson, Cal., employing printers and publishers have conceded the eight-hour day.

A fight is on at Washington, D. C., where most of the employers, it is said, will refuse the demands of the union which go into effect Thursday.

Offices Refuse.

All the Lowell job offices but the Courier-Citizen, Lowell Print and Butterfield Company have refused to grant the demands.

The Taunton and North Adams contracts have been signed by all members of the union.

Twelve men of the Baker & Vawter and the Eureka Ruling & Binding Companies struck in Fall River, and the remainder are not returned.

Some eight Portland printers remain out on strike.

Nine of the largest Haverhill offices have already granted the short day.

The strike at New Bedford, Newburyport, Nashua or Concord, N. H. The Fall River day no time ago.

There is only [illegible] contract which has expired has a six-hour day clause in it.

At Rockland, Me., [illegible] of the strike [illegible] are still out, and the large [illegible] firm in refusing the demands.

The two Portsmouth, N. H., newspaper publishers have asked for further time. It is expected that they will give their decision to-day.

In Columbus, O., twenty-one union job printing offices granted the eight-hour day

HIGHER WAGES MARKS START OF NEW YEAR

Woolen Mill Operatives Pay Increased Ten Per Cent; and Trade Conditions Good.

UNREST IN SHOE BUSINESS

The new year has brought many changes to those who are employed in the woolen mills of New England, the greater part of whom have begun work on wages increased ten per cent. by the manufacturers, and also to children employed in the mills and manufactories of Massachusetts, where the new illiteracy law has gone into effect.

Under this new law, no child under fourteen, or between fourteen and sixteen years of age who cannot read distinctly and write English sentences legibly, can be employed by a manufacturing concern or business house. This law causes considerable inconvenience to foreign-born parents whose children work in the mills in Lowell, Lawrence, Salem, Fall River, New Bedford, Chicopee, Holyoke and other large manufacturing centres. School attendance has largely increased as a result of the law.

The increase in the wages of woolen mill operatives is general. About 50,000 operatives obtain advantage of the new schedule, which calls for the payment of $1,500,000 more than the payrolls of 1905 amounted to.

There are several small strikes in mills where the manufacturers have not increased wages. The latest is one at the mills of the French River Textile Company in Putnam, Conn., where about 125 weavers have gone out.

The Farwell worsted mill in Pawtucket has put into operation the increased wage schedule, and when notice to this effect was posted in the mills, the operatives broke into prolonged cheering.

In the shoe business there is some unrest. Lasters are on strike in several shops in Lynn. The unions claim that the employers have hired detectives to join the union, learn the plans and report to the manufacturers.

The Shoe Manufacturers Association of Auburn, Me., in whose shops there is now a strike of cutters and lasters, has issued a statement declaring that hereafter the shops of Auburn will be open to all workmen. The strikers have rejected a proposition of the shops to return to work on slightly increased wages.

HUSBAND AND WIFE EACH A[SK] FOR DIVOR[CE]

Maj. Keene Meets Mrs. Kee[ne] Chare With a Counter Petition.

STIRS PROVIDENCE SOCIE[TY]

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Jan. 2.—The same effort is made to bring about a reconciliation before the case is tried, Providence expects a sensation at the trial of the divorce suit of Major and Mrs. Willis Fairtoul Keene, because Mr. Keene has filed a counter petition, making serious charges against his wife.

Mrs. Keene is the only daughter of the late Frank F. Olney, and has been living in the Olney home, in Hope street, with her mother. Her husband's home is [illegible] Central Falls, where Major Keene has a prominent position as engineer.

Although her marriage to Major Keene was favored by her mother, her father strongly objected. The couple eloped and were married in Chester [illegible], New York on February 10, 1896. The bride was given away by George F. Andrews, and Miss Marie C. Keene was her maid of honor. Wentworth Leeming of New York was best man.

On the death of her father Mrs. Keene received a fortune believed to have been between $300,000 and $400,000. She has only one brother, Lemuel [illegible] married a young woman [illegible] Brooklyn society.

Mrs. Keene sued for [illegible] on grounds of cruelty, [illegible] neglect to provide.

The husband has now filed a [illegible] petition, in which the charges are identical with those made by [illegible] and that instead of being [illegible] he is charged with having refused to live with her husband for two years or more.

NEW HAVEN BARS 'SAP[PHO]'

NEW HAVEN, Ct., Jan. 2.—Police Commissioner James Wrinn has notified the management of the Hyperion Theatre that the production of "Sappho" with Miss Kerbaville in the leading role, will not be allowed here Wednesday, January

THOUSANDS HAVE KIDNEY TROUBLE AND DON'T KNOW IT

To Prove what Swamp-Root, the Great Kidney Cure will do for YOU, Every Reader of "The American" May Have a Sample Bottle Sent Free by Mail.

Weak and unhealthy kidneys are responsible for more sickness and suffering than any other disease, therefore, when through neglect or other causes, kidney trouble is permitted to continue, fatal results are sure to follow.

Your other organs may need attention—but your kidneys most, because they do most and need attention first.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because as soon as your kidneys begin to get better they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince anyone.

The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root the great kidney and bladder remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. Swamp-Root will set your whole system right, and the best proof of this is a trial.

55 College St., Melrose, Iowa.

Dear Sir:—
Ever since I was born, I was troubled with kidney trouble, and until within the past year it became so serious that I could not work. I had everything and was much alarmed—in fact, thought I could not live long. Reading an advertisement of Swamp-Root and what it had done for others, I began the use of it myself, and noted a decided improvement after taking the contents of the first bottle.

I continued to use it and am thankful to say that I am entirely cured and strong. In order to prove the merits of Swamp-Root, I will give the name of my water twelve and be pronounced by any physician in the country.

I know that your Swamp-Root is purely vegetable, and that it is the best kidney remedy. Thanking you for what your Swamp-Root has done for me, I am, Very truly yours, C. C. RICHARDSON.

Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything, but it promptly cures kidney, liver and bladder troubles, the symptoms of which are—obliged to pass your water frequently night and day, smarting or irritation in passing, brick dust or sediment in the urine, headache, backache, lame back, dizziness, poor digestion, sleeplessness, nervousness, heart disturbance due to bad kidney trouble, skin eruptions from bad blood, neuralgia, rheumatism, diabetes, bloating, irritability, worn out feeling, lack of ambition, loss of flesh, sallow complexion, or Bright's disease.

If your water, when allowed to remain undisturbed in a glass or bottle for twenty-four hours, forms a sediment or settling or has a cloudy appearance, it is evidence that your kidneys and bladder need immediate attention.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is for sale at drug stores the world over in bottles of two sizes and two prices—fifty cents and one dollar. Remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

SPECIAL NOTE.—In order to prove the wonderful merits of Swamp-Root you may have a sample bottle and a book of valuable information, both sent absolutely free by mail. The book contains many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from men and women cured. The value and success of Swamp-Root are so well known that our readers are advised to send for a sample bottle of it. When you write address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention reading this generous offer in the Boston American. The proprietors guarantee the genuineness of this offer is guaranteed.

BLIC CONTROL OF WATER UPPLY PROVED BLESSING

...ers Point Out Benefits That Will Come With City Ownership of Gas and Other Utilities.

MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP LEAGUE

Ward ..... City .....

I, the undersigned, enroll myself a member of the Municipal Ownership League of the city in which I reside. I pledge myself to use every honorable effort to bring about the municipal ownership of public utilities. I believe that city lighting plants to supply the needs of cities and of the citizens as well is one object to be attained.

Name .....

Street Address .....

Cut this out, sign it and send it to the Secretary of the Municipal Ownership League, No. 40 Summer street.

That the people of Boston are manifesting a deeper interest in the municipal ownership of public utilities is shown by the fact that addresses on this subject are being made at nearly all meetings of an educational and civic nature.

At the various improvement association meetings in the city and before other organizations the subject is being discussed ... of interest.

...cipal ownership of light... ...for the good of the ... ...t mean better and cheap...

...Patrick's Total Abstinence ...y Society of Roxbury, William ...yer of this city, discussed the ...ile pointed out the good results ...d occurred from the municipality ... the water department, and then ...ed the railway situation from the ...point of the employment of foreigners ...er than people living in this city. "Years ago," said the speaker, "the ...er works of the city of Boston were ...r the jurisdiction of a corporation, and ...ayers were compelled to pay $50 per ...for the use of three or four faucets. ...e water was so bad for drinking ...s that the people had to go and ...e suitable water from the springs ...n were located at that time in numerous places in and around Boston.

Has Proved a Blessing.

This continued for such a length of time that the people aroused in their might and demanded for purer water, better service and a lower tax rate. The city fathers hearkened with alacrity to the voice of the people and purchased almost an entire township and set to work at once and built magnificent water works of its own.

"Since that time municipal ownership of water has proven a blessing to the people and has aided them materially in monetary affairs.

"If the city can save money on its water supply, and the citizens are satisfied with it, the argument holds good that the city can purchase its own gas plant, and increase the happiness of its inhabitants by giving them better service and a substantial reduction in the price of gas.

Road Employes Outsiders.

"The people of Boston contribute vast sums of money annually towards the running of the street cars of our city, and in return the Elevated Company goes up to New Hampshire and Vermont and down to Nova Scotia in quest of help. In the newspapers of those places you will find numerous advertisements inserted slyly calling for able-bodied men to present themselves at the office of the Elevated and register for street car employment. In the meantime the thousands of unemployed in the city cannot procure employment.

"Under municipal ownership, the citizens of Boston would be given preference at all times."

Peter Macqueen of No. 22 Harvard street, Bunker Hill district, this city, in writing to the secretary of the Municipal Ownership League, has this to say about the telephone system of this city:

The Telephone Service.

"Like all honest men I am greatly interested in Mr. Hearst's magnificent fight for the public ownership of public utilities. Take the telephone service of Boston. It is not only exorbitantly high, but the service is wretched and inefficient.

"To begin with, the old system of ring one, ring two, etc., is outworn. In New York it is done away with. A little money spent on new machinery in Boston would make it twice as easy to use the telephones. The price of any message in the greater city should not be more than five cents. The profits of the company should be used to better the condition of the working class. I for one am willing to take the platform in favor of the city of Boston owning the telephones."

The Municipal Ownership League, which has formed a permanent organization and has members in every ward in the city, is increasing every day. Persons who desire to identify themselves with the league should fill out the blank in this issue of the BOSTON AMERICAN and forward it to the secretary at No. 40 Summer street.

Those who desire the "Lessons in Municipal Ownership" by Professor Frank Parsons, the President of the League, which were printed in the BOSTON AMERICAN and have been reprinted in pamphlet form, may secure the little book by addressing the secretary.

SAYS HE WED WRONG TWIN

Alleges That He Was Deceived Into Marrying Sister of His Betrothed.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Jan. 2.—Hyde J. Summers of Olcott, N. Y., but formerly of Pittsburg, is endeavoring to secure the annulment by the Erie county Supreme Court of his marriage to his wife, Irene, on the ground that he led the wrong bride to the altar. The plaintiff sets forth that the plaintiff offered himself to Ruth Rekman in marriage, was accepted and the day set.

The plaintiff next alleges that his sweetheart had a twin sister, and the two were identical in appearance. He relies on instance when Irene accompanied him to a concert in Buffalo as a joke, he thinking it was Ruth. Several days after the wedding Summers requested his wife to play on the piano and sing for him. She played indifferently well, he alleges, and could not sing with any degree of talent. This aroused his suspicions, as Ruth possessed a clear soprano voice.

The answer intimates the ruse cannot step in to rectify mistakes made by the groom, and further denies that any error was made. The defendant insists she can sing with more than ordinary ability, and as the whole case pivots on this point, her skill will be the most important exhibit when the case goes before the jury, for, owing to the radical question of fact, a jury trial will be had.

As to her identity, the defendant denies the plaintiff coerced her sister, and maintains he wooed her as Irene and that there was no mistake.

FIRE IN OLD "BLACK CAT" RESTAURANT

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—The nearly wiped out the famous old "Black Cat" restaurant at No. 551 West Broadway, early today, and incidentally emptied half a score of tenement houses in the neighborhood, the people fleeing from their homes in night garments. A few years ago the "Black Cat" was the centre of Bohemia in the lower end of town.

MAYOR FITZGERALD FIRST UNDOES WHELTON'S WORK

Ousts New Schoolhouse Commission and Revokes Contracts Let By Old Administration.

Mayor John F. Fitzgerald was kept busy all day on the first day of his administration in undoing the acts of his predecessor, former Acting Mayor Daniel A. Whelton.

His first official act was to appoint Richard F. Field of the Hotel Rexford as messenger, transferring the former messenger, Patrick Henry Fahey, to the city treasurer's department.

His next act, immediately after leaving the council chamber where he was inaugurated, was to oust from office the three members of the schoolhouse commission appointed three weeks ago by Acting Mayor Whelton and reappoint the former commission, which Whelton fired from office.

The new remained by Mayor Fitzgerald are Richard P. Hood, Henry V. Mackey and Peter Tague. The old commission, now reappointed, is made up of R. Clipston Sturgis, Joseph J. Corbett and Charles Logue.

When came a messenger bearing the resignation of Eugene S. Sullivan as water commissioner. Mr. Sullivan was appointed by Mayor Collins, and his term would not have expired until April 30, 1907. The vacancy will be filled by appointment by the mayor without confirmation by the city council.

Mayor Fitzgerald then sent a communication to the heads of all departments, demanding that salaries be reduced to the figures they were at September 16, 1905. Since Whelton's administration began the salaries of a great many employes of the city had been largely increased.

He then revoked thirty-nine contracts given out by the Sewer department in the last days of the old year, aggregating expenditures of $479,482.

He gave a dinner to the City Council in the Quincy House at 5.30, and had lunch himself in Danvers with his family. In the evening he was entertained by various clubs of which he is a member.

TRAINS CRASH; 1 DEAD, 20 HURT

BUFFALO, N. Y., Dec. 2.—One Batavia fireman is dead and thirteen or twenty others badly injured as a result of a fast freight crashing into a New York Central coach in which the firemen were being hurried to the town of Bergen, where a fire was raging all of yesterday afternoon and a portion of last night.

Frank Romans, proprietor of the Continental Hotel, Batavia, died in a few minutes after the collision.

The burned district of Bergen includes the dry goods store of George D. Weldrick, a grocery store, grocery store, the Bell Telephone Company's central office and Robinson's law office.

...TERS OF PATRIOTS' MEET

Quite out of the ordinary was the meeting of Massachusetts Chapter of "Daughters of Founders and Patriots of America," held in the Pierce Building.

After a short business meeting, Mrs. Sara White Lee addressed the members, because the regent, Mrs. Caroline Warren, was suffering from a cold and did not feel equal to a speech.

Mrs. Lee introduced the soloists and entertainers, who gave an excellent entertainment.

Mrs. Frank Strenahan rendered a group of songs. Miss Howe recited and played "Carnival Night."

Then Mrs. Sara White Lee read the historian's report, following which Miss Howe gave a pretty solo and Miss Dinsmore recited a French poem. Tea was served.

TRAIN HITS SLEIGH AND TWO ARE KILLED

EAST FAIRFIELD, Vt., Jan. 2.—Charles Hammond, of St. Albans, and Mrs. E. D. Dickinson, of Derrick, while attempting to drive across the tracks of the St. Johnsbury and Lake Champlain railroad here were struck by a north-bound express train and killed. They were on their way to East Fairfield to attend a New Year's gathering.

MILLIONAIRE OF 78 SOON TO WED

WORCESTER, Jan. 2.—Martin Green, aged seventy-eight and a millionaire, brother of the late Andrew H. Green, father of Greater New York, has announced his engagement to Mrs. Joseph Sampson of Wareham, formerly of Denver and Chicago.

Mrs. Sampson is seventy-two years old and her friendship with Mr. Green dates back forty-five years and began in Chicago.

Soon after his wife died last April Mr. Green went to Wareham, where he renewed his friendship with Mrs. Sampson, whose husband died years ago in Denver. He went there many times in the ensuing months. As a result the aged couple are to be married.

Andrew H. Green, his brother, who died early last year, bequeathed him nearly a million.

GRANDSON OF GEN. LOGAN IN THE NAVY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—Logan Tucker of Illinois, who recently passed No. 1 in the examination for appointment as a second lieutenant in the Marine Corps, is a son of Lieutenant-Colonel W. F. and Mary Logan Tucker, and a grandson of General and Mrs. John A. Logan. He is the only one of General Logan's grandchildren whom the general ever saw.

A Helping Hand To Women

There is help for every woman who suffers from headache, faintness, depression, backache and other ailments during those times when Nature makes a heavy demand on her strength and vitality. Every woman should take to help her through these trying periods and to keep the system in a normal and healthy condition. The girl just entering womanhood, and those of maturer years, find equal benefit from Beecham's Pills. Taken at the first sign of derangement, they give prompt assistance. Read the special directions for women with every box.

BEECHAM'S PILLS

Sold Everywhere in Boxes. 10c and 25c.

BURKE'S

THE DUBLIN BOTTLING

Dublin Bottled Guinness STOUT

A Delicious Beverage—Wholesome and Easily Digested

An Absolutely Pure Malt and Hop Product.

And Still the Records Go!

GROWTH OF

HEARST'S BOSTON AMERICAN

UNPRECEDENTED IN NEWSPAPER HISTORY

Average Circulation for December

(Daily and Sunday)

306,085

Greatest Net Paid Circulation in the City of Boston and in New England

This is after deducting all papers used for exchanges, files, samples, free papers and excessive print.

...o before me, this 1st ... of January,
...UEL PUTNAM, N... Public.

(Signed) F. H. VAN GELDER,
Circulation Manager

$10 in Prizes and 50 Watches to Those Who Guess How This Story Ends.

Mystery of "THE FATAL CIPHER"

Begin this story to-day, read it carefully, and next Saturday you will have a chance to win a prize by guessing how it will end on Sunday.

Conditions of the Contest

This story will run through the week. The final chapter, in which the mystery will be solved, will be printed in Sunday's BOSTON AMERICAN.

The only day on which no installment of the story will appear will be Saturday. The next to the last chapter will be printed Friday, and then everybody will have until 6 p. m. Saturday in which to guess how this story ends.

The person who guesses the ending of the story most accurately will receive the first prize of $50.

If two or more persons guess it correctly, the one whose reply was mailed first will receive first prize, the next one will get second prize, etc.

If no one solves the mystery accurately, the one who comes nearest to a correct solution will receive first prize.

REMEMBER

That this is a test of SKILL IN THINKING, not skill in writing. All you have to do is to THINK OUT the solution of the mystery. The literary merit of the answers will not be considered.

That if no correct answer is received $100 in PRIZES and fifty watches will be awarded ANYHOW to those who come nearest to solving the mystery.

NO ANSWERS POSTMARKED LATER THAN 6 P. M. SATURDAY WILL BE CONSIDERED.

Address all communications to

PRIZE STORY EDITOR,
BOSTON AMERICAN.

"The Fatal Cipher"

The tenth of a series of mysteries which come under the observation of Prof. Augustus S. F. X. Van Dusen, Ph. D., LL. D., etc., etc., so called

"The Thinking Machine"

—BY—

Jacques Futrelle

Copyright, 1905, by American-Journal-Examiner.

Synopsis of Preceding Part

ELIZABETH DEVAN places a supposed cipher in the hands of The Thinking Machine for solution. This letter appears to have been written by her adopted father, Pomeroy Stockton. She tells a story of disagreement and quarrel between Stockton and his son John, after which the latter is found dead with the letter in his pocket. The Thinking Machine undertakes to solve the cipher.

Part 2.

IT was twenty-four hours later that The Thinking Machine sent for Hutchinson Hatch, reporter, and talked over the matter with him. He had always found Hatch a discreet, resourceful individual, who was willing and in any way in his power.

He handed the letter, which The Thinking Machine had said contained a cipher, to Hatch. In circumstances as stated by Miss Devan were proud to the reporter.

"Do you think it is a cipher?" asked Hatch in conclusion.

"Does a cipher?" replied The Thinking Machine. "If what Miss Devan has said is true, John Stockton cannot have said anything about the affair. I want you to go to Dorchester to him, find out all about the will, what division of the property is made by the will. Does this will give everything to the son?

"Also find out what personal enmity there is between John Stockton and Miss Devan, and what was the cause of it. Was there a man in it? If so, who? When you have done all this, go to the house in Dorchester and bring me the family Bible, if there is one there. It's probably a big book. If it is not there let me know immediately by 'phone. Miss Devan will, I am sure, give it to you, if she has it."

With these instructions Hatch went out. Half an hour later he was in the office of John Stockton at the latter's request, by appointment. Mr. Stockton was a man of long visage, rather angular and severe in appearance. There was a smug satisfaction about the man that Hatch felt both approve of, and yet it was a trait which found expression only in a cold voice and a small acts of needless courtesy.

A deprecatory look passed over Stockton's face when Hatch asked the first question, which was on his relationship to Pomeroy Stockton.

"I had hoped that this matter would not come to the attention of the press," said Stockton in an oily, gentle tone. "It is something which can only bring disgrace upon my poor father's memory, and he has been a name associated with distinct achievements in the progress of the world. However, if necessary, I will state my knowledge of the affair, and invite the investigation which, frankly, I will say, I tried to stop."

"How much was your father's estate?" asked Hatch.

"Something more than a million," was the reply. "He made most of it through a device for coupling cars. This is now in use on practically all of the railroads."

"And the division of this property by will?" asked Hatch.

"I have not seen the will, but I understand that he left practically everything to me, settling an annuity and the home in Dorchester on Miss Devan, whom we had always regarded as a daughter."

"That would give you then, say, two-thirds or three-quarters of the estate?"

"Something like that, possibly $600,000."

"Where is this will now?"

"I understand in the hands of my father's attorney, Mr. Sloane."

"When is it to be read?"

"It was to have been read to-day but there has been some delay about it. The attorney postponed it for a few days."

"What, Mr. Stockton, was the purpose in making it appear that your father died naturally, when obviously he committed suicide and there is even a suggestion of something else?" demanded Hatch.

John Stockton sat up straight in his chair with a startled expression in his eyes. He had been rubbing his hands together complacently; now he stopped and stared at the reporter.

"Something else?" he asked. "Pray what else?"

Hatch shrugged his shoulders, but in his eyes there lay almost an accusation.

"Did any motive ever appear for your father's suicide?"

"I know of none," Stockton replied. "Yet, admitting that this is suicide, without a motive, it seems that the only fault I have committed is that I had a friend report it otherwise and avoided a police inquiry."

"It's just that. Why did you do it?"

"Naturally to save the family name from disgrace. But this something else you spoke of? Do you mean that anyone else thinks that other than suicide or natural death is possible?"

As he asked the question there came some subtle change in his face. He leaned forward toward the reporter. All trace of the sanctimonious smirk about the thin-lipped mouth had gone now.

"Miss Devan has produced the letter found on your father at death and has said—" began the reporter.

"Elizabeth! Miss Devan!" exclaimed John Stockton. He arose suddenly, paced several times across the room, then stopped in front of the reporter. "She gave me her word of honor that she would not make known the existence of that letter."

"But she has made it public," said Hatch, and further she intimates that your father's death was not even what it appeared to be, suicide."

"She's crazy, man, crazy," said Stockton, in deep earnest. "Who could have killed my father? What motive could there have been?"

There was a grim twitching of Hatch's lips.

"Was Miss Devan legally adopted by your father?" he asked, irrevantly.

"Yes."

"In that event, disregarding other relatives, doesn't it seem strange even to you that he gives three-quarters of the estate to you—you who have a fortune already—and only a small part to Miss Devan, who has no money?"

"That's my father's business."

There was a pause. Stockton was still pacing back and forward. Finally he sank down in his chair at the desk, and sat for a moment looking at the reporter.

"Is that all?" he asked.

"I should like to know, if you don't mind telling me, what direct cause there is for ill feeling between Miss Devan and you?"

"There is no ill feeling. We merely never got along well together. My father and I have had several arguments about her for reasons which it is not necessary to go into."

"Did you have such an argument on the night before your father was found dead?"

"I believe there was something said about her."

"What time did you leave the shop that night?"

"About 10 o'clock."

"And you had been in the room with your father since afternoon, had you not?"

"Yes."

"No dinner?"

"No."

"How did you come to neglect this?"

"My father was explaining a recent invention he had perfected, which I was to put on the market."

"I suppose the possibility of suicide or his death in any way had not occurred to you?"

"No, not at all. We were making elaborate plans for the future."

Possibly it was prejudice against the man's appearance which made Hatch so unsatisfied with the result of the interview. He felt that he had gained nothing, yet Stockton had been absolutely frank, as it seemed. There was one last question.

"Have you any recollection of a large family Bible in your father's house?" he asked.

"I have seen it several times," Stockton replied.

"Is it still there?"

"So far as I know, yes."

That was the end of the interview, and Hatch went straight to the home in Dorchester to see Miss Devan. There, in accordance with instructions from The Thinking Machine, he asked for the family Bible.

"There was one here the other day," said Miss Devan, "but it has disappeared."

"Since your father's death?" asked Hatch.

"Yes, the next day."

"Have you any idea who took it?"

"Not unless—unless——"

"John Stockton. Why did he take it?" blurted Hatch.

There was a little resigned movement of the girl's hands, a movement which said, "I don't know."

"He told me, too," said Hatch indignantly, "that he thought the Bible was still here."

The girl drew close to the reporter and laid one white hand on his sleeve. She looked up into his eyes and tears stood in her own. Her lips trembled.

"John Stockton has that book," she said. "He took it away from here the day after my father died, and he did it for a purpose. What I don't know."

"Are you absolutely positive he has it?" asked Hatch.

"I saw it in his room, where he had hidden it." replied the girl.

(TO BE CONTINUED TO-MORROW.)

Miss Devan laid her hand on Hutchinson Hatch's coat and said: "The Bible is in John Stockton's room—I saw it there."

$100 in Prizes and 50 Watches For Solutions

One hundred dollars and fifty watches will be given away to those who guess nearest to how this story, "The Fatal Cipher," ends.

First prize	$50
Second prize	25
Third prize	10
Fourth prize	5
Fifth prize	5
Sixth prize	5
Next 50 get watches.

No answers postmarked later than 6 p. m. Saturday will be considered.

Address all communications to Prize Story Editor, Boston American, 80-82 Summer street.

ALDERMAN PROTESTS AGAINST M'CLELLAN

REMARKABLE SCENE AT THE BOARD MEETING WHEN PUBLIC INDIGNATION IS VOICED.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—"On behalf of the men who voted for the legally elected Mayor of New York City, on behalf of the majority, as I believe of this board, and on behalf of a majority of the citizens of Greater New York, I protest against giving any official recognition to George B. McClellan, and object to the printing of his message as an official document. We do not wish to interfere with the orderly procedure of the city administration. I do wish, however, to express my opinion, which I believe is the opinion of a majority of the people of this city, that George B. McClellan was not elected the Mayor of New York."

"The man who we believe was elected Mayor has proceeded deliberately and with dignity under the law, and is now contesting in the interest of all citizens for the office to which by a majority of the people he was elected. And because this contest is proceeding, it is only seemly that there should go on record at this time this emphatic dissent from the findings of the election officials. I believe that in a few months that man who was legally elected will be seated as Mayor of this city. I refer to William Randolph Hearst."

So spoke Alderman Henry Clay Peters at the first meeting of the newly-elected Board of Aldermen. Before Mr. Peters had quite finished the aldermanic chamber rang with applause and cheers. The demonstration, first breaking out in the gallery, soon spread to the floor, and for three minutes there was an unparalleled demonstration, despite all efforts of the presiding officer to quell the tumult.

"And I," said Alderman Mulligan of the Bronx, "wish to add my voice and my emphatic dissent from the result of the election as officially announced. We all know Mr. Hearst was elected Mayor of New York, and it is only right that this opinion should be officially spread upon the record."

These two statements marked the climax of the most remarkable session ever held by a New York board of Aldermen. Not only was the right of the man selected by the people to send a message to the board to a seat in the mayor's chair questioned, but the presiding officer of the board was actually driven from his seat so that the board might receive the protest of the contestant. In this place and in other debate time was spent expressing the opinion that the contestant was entitled to the place.

By far the most important development of the day in the Aldermanic Chamber was the possibility, revealed through the action upon the protest of James G. Phelps Stokes of opening the ballot boxes and thus determining the exact vote cast on election day. According to Clarence J. Shearn, who prepared the protest of Mr. Stokes, the recanvass of all the votes cast is now not only a possibility, but a clear probability. Such a recanvass would show specifically not, it is said, that the votes cast for Mayor-elect McClellan were illegal, but that a majority of the votes cast were for Hearst, and convincingly Mr. Hearst's election is certain, Mr. Shearn declares.

WHY This Coffee is Good

THERE'S ONLY one way to make a deliciously mellow and fragrantly aromatic cup of coffee.

That one way is to use good coffee.

There's only one way to get good coffee.

That is to grow it carefully in the right soil, in the right climate, in the right locality. Now Chase & Sanborn experts can tell by looking at the raw, unroasted coffee beans if they have been properly cultivated. Just as a grain buyer can tell by looking at grains of wheat if they have been properly grown.

And just as the grain buyer tells by the shape, size and color of wheat if it is A No. 1 quality, so do our experts decide by the shape, size and color of the coffee beans if they are "fine" quality.

They tell by the shape if the berries have been taken from the right part of the coffee plant; if they are the delicious top berries containing the maximum amount of the best qualities of coffee in place of the somewhat harsh and bitter lower berries that grow more coarsely and rankly.

Then our experts can tell by the size and succulence if the berries come from plantations on the lofty hillside—where the cool, clear atmosphere makes them grow slowly and enables them to extract to the utmost the best properties of the rich soil—rather than the coarser and more fibrous berries of the low, unhealthy, swampy growth where vegetation is forced because of the heat and dampness.

And they can tell by the color—if the fruits have been properly matured, if the full flavor has been developed to its maximum power.

And they can tell if the berries are undergrown or unripe with a raw, weedy taste. After the coffee beans have safely passed these severe tests, the one supreme test of "cup value" is applied. They are cleaned, roasted, ground and infused. If the taste is deliciously mellow and the odor fragrantly aromatic, these PROVEN coffee berries are selected for

Chase & Sanborn's Seal Brand Coffee

Certified Coffee

When these select beans have been aged for three years, they are carefully cleaned and roasted by Expert Coffee Curers—men whose lifetime has been devoted to curing and roasting Coffee.

That's why Seal Brand Coffee has that full, rich, creamy, delightful flavor.

That's why Seal Brand Coffee smells so invitingly—makes you feel that you can't get enough.

Seal Brand Coffee is put up in air-tight tins—price 35c per pound.

We have several other brands of coffees that are as carefully selected, cured and put up as Seal Brand Coffee. Their retail prices are 25c, 30c and 35c the pound. At all reputable grocers.

MISS ALICE IS BELLE OF NEW YEAR FESTIVAL

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 2.—Miss Alice Roosevelt was the belle and the centre of attraction at the New Year's reception at the White House.

She wore a cluster of lady finger orchids and carried in her hand a gold purse, long—gold chain which held it wrapped several times about her wrist. She was also a betrothal gift. She wore also a magnificent necklace of diamonds, this being the first time that she has appeared in such costly ornaments. There was a whisper that it was one of the many gifts which Mr. Longworth has presented to his fiancee.

From the moment of her appearance in the blue room she was surrounded by friends, offering good wishes. She shook hands with everyone in the hearty and energetic fashion characteristic of her father. She talked and laughed and answered questions until, when the reception ended, she was so hoarse she could hardly articulate. To each friend she also distributed her glove, turned it down and displayed the sparkling engagement ring. Many veteran legged the favor of a glance and without a moment's hesitation fastened one of her choice orchids.

After receiving the congratulations of the diplomatic corps, the Supreme Court, the army and navy and other specially invited guests, Miss Roosevelt and Mr. Longworth made a triumphant march through the corridor to the East Room, where they held court for fifteen or twenty minutes. Longworth bore the raillery of his colleagues with the utmost good nature, and he presented Miss Roosevelt to many of his friends whom she had not previously met.

LABOR NEWS

ALLIED PRINTING TRADES LABOR COUNCIL BOSTON MASS. '96

By the signing of two more firms yesterday Sheet Metal Workers' Union No. 17 begins the new year with every shop in this city on an eight-hour basis, with the exception of E. B. Badger & Sons.

The members were enthusiastic at last night's meeting over the signing of Carpenter & Co., Tremont street, and John K. Wells, Haverhill street.

The following executive board was chosen: President John J. Hynes, Vice-President William Darnell, Business Agent John F. Kennedy, Louis Harrington, C. S. Fillmore, William F. Fitzgerald, Alexander Campbell, Henry Patterson and R. Lentini. The newly elected officers were installed by Third International Vice-President John H. Windell. Business Agent John F. Kennedy was presented with a watch charm on behalf of the members by Mr. Windell in recognition of his efficient services.

BROPHY'S TENTH TERM.

John J. Brophy was chosen business agent of Steamfitters' Union No. 22 for the tenth consecutive term last night. Possible feature is that Business Agent Brophy has never had any opposition, a worthy tribute to his efficiency in filling that office.

Other officers elected for the next six months are: President John J. Keaney; vice-president, John Mulloy; financial secretary, George E. Flynn; recording secretary, George Wormesley; inspector, John J. Donovan; guard, P. Young.

The executive board made its report, which was accepted as progressive. Business Agent Brophy reported business good.

PAPERHANGERS HEAR REPORTS.

Hugh M. Sweeney and James Truland, delegates from Boston Paperhangers' Union No. 258 to the recent convention of the International Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers at Memphis, Tenn., made their reports at last night's meeting.

Past President Edward F. Featherstone installed the following newly officers: President, James P. Crosby; vice-president, C. S. Wheeler; business agent, James Truland; treasurer, H. P. Fanburn; recording secretary, H. W. Bearce; financial secretary, Charles Leverett; conductor, Arthur Lawford; warden, P. E. Purdon.

METAL POLISHERS INSTALL.

William Burns, the new president of Metal Polishers, Platers and Buffers' Union No. 105, was installed at last night's meeting, together with the following officers: Vice-president, J. Sliban; recording secretary, George Lever; financial secretary, A. C. Langlois; treasurer, Isaac Creighton; guardian, W. F. Caldwell; trustees, A. C. Betterly, J. Morrow and Thomas Kay; executive board, Isaac Creighton, William Burns, Hall, Cornelius O'Driscoll, George Lever, W. H. Roberts and W. F. Caldwell.

LABOR -NOTES.

Stablemen's Union No. 11,805 will hold a smoke-talk to-night at No. 46 Hollman street.

Officers will be installed by Railroad Machinists' Lodge No. 507 to-night at No. 40 Eliot street, after which there will be a smoke-talk.

Steamfitters' Helpers' Union No. 26 meets to-night at Scenic Hall, No. 3 Appleton street.

Boston Pattern Makers' Association will be visited by a delegation from the Providence local at to-morrow night's meeting at No. 126 Washington street.

FEET AND HANDS CRIPPLED

With Rheumatism, I Could not Walk for Six Months, and Went to Hospital after Hospital, but Could Get No Relief until

CURED BY

MINARD'S KING OF PAIN LINIMENT

Four years ago I was taken with rheumatism, and for three years I could not do any work at all. But for the last year, since using Minard's Liniment, I am able to do all my housework. I think that I know the worth of Minard's Liniment better than any person who has ever suffered with rheumatism. Hundreds of people who know of my suffering give Minard's Liniment the praise. I wish every one knew the worth of this as I do. Yours truly, Mrs. Williams, 62 Sawyer St., Bo

EWARD NURSE FOR HEROISM IN SAVING LIFE OF PATIENT

JULIA LOFTUS

Elmendorf Photo.

NURSE WHO RESCUED DROWNING WOMAN

Plunged Into Freezing Water of River and Supported Woman, Who Tried to Cross on Ice, Till Help Came

Special to the Boston American.

WATERBURY, Vt., Jan. 2.—In recognition of her bravery in saving the life of a patient who had jumped through the ice of the Winooski river, Dr. Grant, Superintendent of the State Hospital for the Insane, has ensured an increase in salary for Miss Julia Loftus, a nurse. Miss Ryan and Mrs. Gates, who assisted her, also share in the reward.

Miss Loftus is recovering from her long immersion in the icy water, as is her patient, whose name is withheld. Only her courage in clinging to the frenzied woman while she kept afloat she sought to sup port her time after time give away, prevented a tragedy.

The patients at the hospital are customarily exercised every morning, and on this occasion Miss Loftus was one of the nurses detailed to go out with the women patients. While on the lower end of Main street, where on one side only a narrow strip of meadow separates the street from the Winooski river, one of the patients, who had heretofore been very quiet, escaped from the group and ran towards the river. A number of the nurses started in pursuit, but were unable to capture her before she reached the bank.

The ice near the shore was firm at the point, thinning as the centre where the swifter current runs. The patient ran on the ice, which bore her weight, and gave some distance from shore, when it gave way, plunging her into the water.

Those in pursuit hesitated as they gained the bank and saw the drowning woman, but Miss Loftus ran out alone and sprang into the roaring current after her. By great efforts Miss Loftus was able to catch hold

Every Woman is interested and should know
MARVEL Whirling Spray
The New Vaginal Syringe
Best—Safest—Most Convenient
It Cleanses Instantly

Ask your druggist for it. If he cannot supply the MARVEL, accept no substitute but send stamp for illustrated book—sent in plain envelope. MARVEL MFG. CO., 44 E. 23d ST., NEW YORK.

For Sale by Dwight Bros., 159 Summer st.; Wm. H. Baker & Co., 120 Tremont st.; Raymond & Co., 139 Portland st.; Prescott & Co., 27 Bedford st.

BUSINESS CHANCES.

TUBERCULOSIS.—Dr. Dudley Sargent's Developing Institute, Cambridge, has removed to Dr. Fox Water for the Body, which is perfected, protected by three patents and legally imposed only. Most refreshing and invigorating tonic industry. A block of 100,000 shares in the Fox Water Co. for sale at 10 cents per share; profits to investors—good good to humanity. Make checks payable to Fox Water Co. Address DIRECT LAWRENCE, 1 Beacon st., Boston, or call at office 210 Bedford st., Boston.

RESTAURANT—Here is a fine proposition to establish a first-class restaurant in a business section of Roxbury; present owner 9 years; located on best part of Tremont street; centrally located for good business; present owner leaves city Jan. 15; 1906, and is forced to sacrifice; a rare chance; will clear $30 week; trial given; the place is well equipped and has just been painted; part cash; see BARRY & CO., 552 Tremont st.

REVERE BEACH—Grocery and provisions, never occupied, nice street; 5 minutes' walk to water; 3 rooms above; rent $20; $250 down; balance as rent. 328 Shawmut ave.

REVERE BEACH—2 family, 12 rooms, new and modern; all conveniences; fine location for electrics, steam and boulevard; easy terms; come to 328 and 330 Shawmut ave.

IF YOU have a business to buy or sell, call and see or write us; we have customers who will not take; $25,000 to loan on first-class mortgage; no delays. BAHOSKY & CO., 1151 Broadway.

MILLINERY BUSINESS for sale, high-class trade, good location, fine fixtures, lease about 3 years, price very low. L. L. MAHONEY, Revere.

$300—BEST FITTED VARIETY STORE in suburbs of city; $100 cash; rent $12. BENNETT, STATE OFFICE BUREAU, 324 Washington st., Room 24.

$2,500 — GROCERIES AND PROVISIONS; fine fixtures, counters, refrigerator, scales, cash heavy stock; electric car route. GRANITE STATE BUREAU, 324 Washington st.

$650 COAL-WOOD BUSINESS—House, wagon, horse, sell cash; cleared $100 month; rent $8. 1883 Washington st., Boston.

LODGING HOUSE 15 rooms, on Main ave., all up to date; good trade; must be sold; rent $85; price $1,000. LYONS, 837 Cont st., Boston.

LODGING HOUSE 10 rooms, good location, Boston; must be sold; rent $30; price $300; a bargain. LYONS, 85 Cont st., Boston.

IF YOU want to buy, sell or exchange quickly and privately, call or write us a card. START & CO., 16 School st.

$250—CIGAR STORE, on busy street down town; rent $15; sickness cause of sale; can clear $25 weekly. START & CO., 16 School st., Boston.

GENTEEL LODGING HOUSE, 9 rooms, fine furnishings, rent $30, price $300; a bargain. LYONS, 85 Cont st., Boston.

W. KENNEDY & SON, dealers in second-hand store fixtures, 24 Bromfield st., Boston.

HARNESS STORE AND REPAIRING in Roxbury, established 30 years; fine opening for right party; $100 will handle; doing first-class business; rent $10; sickness cause for selling. $100. 1151 Broadway, near 27th st., N. Y. Hours 9 to 6; Sundays, 10 to 1. Established 40 years.

HARNESS STORE AND REPAIRING in Roxbury, established 30 years; fine opening for right party; $100 will handle; doing first-class business; rent $10; sickness cause for selling. $100. MONETTA, 33 Bromfield bldg., Worcester.

CORNER GROCERY and provisions for sale on account of thirteen days, well equipped corner store, in the first class part of the city; owner going south; is a snap to someone. See PETERS, 1151 Broadway, near 27th st., N. Y. Hours 9 to 6; Sundays, 10 to 1. Established 40 years.

RELIABLE MAN with $350 to buy interest in old established business; permanent; investigation solicited; references exchanged. H. ROGERS, 724 Washington st.

$1,000 CASH buys interest in private lunch room; partner or will do cheap; active Address E. W. DEAL, No. 50 Bromfield st., Room 24.

ACTIVE PARTNER, with $2,000; business established 1 year; clearing $3,000 annually; references given. GEORGE L. ELLIOT, 127 Cort st., Brookline.

$275 BUYS RESTAURANT in Allston; Main st.; rent $20; receipts $1,000 month; must be sold on account of sickness. DEERING, 181 Tremont st.

WANTED—Partner $10,000 cash; fine high class hotel in operation, city business property and no real estate in it. Address E 52, Boston American.

FINE BARBER SHOP for sale, 15 chairs; one Boston doing a good business; well furnished; will change. Address F 14, Boston American.

$125 BUYS nice store, good room, city, fine business location. PARKS, 89 Cross st.

DIAMONDS AND JEWELRY.

HIGHEST cash prices for Collateral Loan Co. tickets; also tickets that we can not use. W. E. WHITEMORE, 420 Washington st., first floor.

JOHN H. LEE HAS BRIDE CHARGED LOST HIS WARD WITH STEALING

John H. Lee, who has been Democratic ward chairman of Ward twenty-five, Brighton district, for so many years, was defeated at the election of officers of the ward committee by James Comerford.

James Donovan was elected secretary and Arthur B. Gilpatrick treasurer. Owen Cunningham was elected to the executive committee.

LINCOLN'S CLOSEST FRIEND.

Alexander Campbell, who had just died at La Salle, Ill., was at one time Abraham Lincoln's closest friend. It was said of him in 1860 that he furnished Lincoln more financial aid in his race for the presidency than any other one man.

Mrs. Ida Ebert, a bride of a week and but nineteen years old, is under arrest by the Chelsea police on a warrant charging her with stealing $165 from her mother, Mrs. Annie Bitterman of No. 94 Fourth street, Chelsea. The arrest was halted through the efforts of her husband, Leonard Ebert, twenty years old.

Mrs. Ebert denies that she took the money. The young woman is a Jewess and her husband is a Gentile, and since their marriage, it is said, the bride's mother has been trouble for her and her husband.

The young people went to Boston after the ceremony, and on the night of the arrest the young man appealed to Chief Hodgkins for protection for his wife. The mother, who, Ebert said, he feared would shoot him.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles and cures Constipation. It regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of
Chas. H. Fletcher

REAL ESTATE.

FAIR VIEW FARM—Rich upland farm of 170 acres with 500 ft. retail milk route; 20 cows, 8 horses, farm, and implements; dairy, farm machinery, tools, hay and boiler; 50 acres machine mowing; cutting 80 tons hay; 2 acres fenced crop; 125 producing; pasture; wood and timber; 2 houses, 2 barns; 2 silos; 1 mile to electric cars; 2 miles to steam railroad; beautifully shaded by noble elms; stock barn 40x72, with silo 24x32; carriage house 40x60; dairy house 20x30; all in A1 repair, situated in one of our healthiest country towns; 3 miles from Boston; easy terms. JOSIAH F. PRESCOTT, 209 Washington st.

NON-RESIDENT OWNER offers special bargain in attractive country home; 9 rooms; all modern conveniences; heating, etc.; 1 acre land; large barn; set tubs, concrete cellar, etc.; 2 minutes to electric cars; 20 minutes to city; and up-to-date in every particular, on trolley line; 30 minutes to Boston; assessed at $4,000; will sell for $3,800; cash or mortgage. JOSIAH F. PRESCOTT, 209 Washington st.

$4,000 FARM FOR $2,500; $500 CASH—9 to 20 acres; 2 acres in cultivation; 2 acres in wood; no rocks; cuts 40 tons hay; keeps 2 cows; 2 horses; 2 acres in orchard; 200 trees; 200 bbls. apples; running water; 2 miles to Boston; 7 rooms; modern conveniences; will sell for $2,500 on easy terms; or will exchange for $2,500 up to $3,000 with city, value; cupola, nice, best of repair; 2 minutes to electric cars; 20 minutes to city; fine lawn; over $1,000 expended; concrete cellar; set tubs; hot water heater; 2 fine fireplaces; no cows or poultry; will entertain you free of charge; 9 Boston trains daily; 1 mile to 3 stables from Manchester.

$4,000—Fine, desirable single home, built about 5 years; has 8 finished rooms, modern improvements, open plumbing, sewer connection, set tubs, cemented cellar, etc.; a bargain for somebody. JOSIAH F. PRESCOTT, 209 Washington st.

$4,000—Fine, desirable single home, built about 5 years; has 8 finished rooms, modern improvements, open plumbing, sewer connection, set tubs, cemented cellar, etc.; a bargain for somebody. JOSIAH & CO., 1,732 Dorchester av.

$4,000—Fine, desirable single home, built about 5 years; has 8 finished rooms, modern improvements, open plumbing, sewer connection, set tubs, cemented cellar, etc.; a bargain for somebody. JOSIAH & CO., 1,732 Dorchester av.

$4,000—Fine, desirable single home, built about 5 years; has 8 finished rooms, modern improvements, open plumbing, sewer connection, set tubs, cemented cellar, etc.; a bargain for somebody. JOSIAH & CO., 1,732 Dorchester av.

EVERETT, 1 family, 6 rooms, 20 Hon. George E. Smith, one of the best built houses in Everett; thoroughly modern; fitted in oak; 1 room, set tubs, 1 new large Magee heater with hot water connections; 1 of the most desirable lots of land; nice lawn; could not be produced to-day for less than $4,000; will sell for $3,800; only to owner; 5 minutes' walk to electric cars; 20 minutes to city. JENNINGS, 1004 Old South bldg. Hours 9 to 12 and 2 to 5.

J. CONCORD FARM.

MANSION, 15 rooms, bath, 4 w. c.'s, hot and cold water, set tubs, open plumbing, sewer connection, 3 tiled floor all hardwood, good stable; 2 sets of buildings; 2 houses, 2 barns; 2 sheds; 2 tenements; 1 of finest in this grand old town of Concord; EDWARD H. ROBBINS & CO., 293 Washington st.

WHAT do you think about this for a bargain? —20 acres in one of the grand old towns of the state; Concord; 2 houses, 2 barns, sheds for 4 cows and a horse; fruit and wood for home use and to spare; 1 house has 7 rooms, the other 2 story, 7 rooms house; barn fitted for 2 loads hay; 2 minutes to electric cars; 20 minutes to Somerset square; price for all, $2,500. EDWARD H. ROBBINS & CO., 293 Washington st.

$1,000—$200 DOWN.

BUYS 8 rooms, 2 tenements, large house in good repair, 2 large box cozys and good workshops, near Dorchester square; price $2,000. $200 down. 10 Saugus, convenient to Boston electrics and steam railroad. JOSIAH F. PRESCOTT, 209 Washington st.

REAL ESTATE—Start the New Year well and buy a nice little home in one of the best localities in Roxbury; 6 rooms, bath, set tubs, hot water heater, hardwood floors, high basement, 2 sinks, 2 laundry tubs, plumbing, 2 large reception halls, colonial mantels, electric lights in house and stable; 2 closets, electric lights in house and stable; 2 closets, electric lights in house and stable; 2 closets

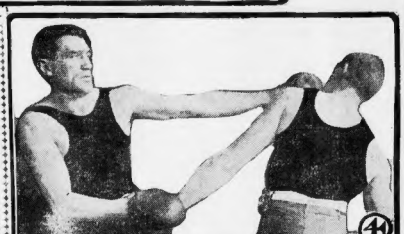
CHAMPION JACK O'BRIEN SHOWS HOW HE WHIPPED LANKY BOB FITZSIMMONS

(From photographs by Sears posed expressly for the BOSTON AMERICAN by the new champion and his sparring partner, Jack Williams.)

No. 1—This, a left to the stomach, is the blow that resulted in Fitz's defeat, but not really the one that beat him. The right to the jaw which O'Brien delivered after getting in that stomach blow really finished the old man. O'Brien says he knew he had him beaten when he delivered it.

No. 3—Fitz's left shift to the stomach. O'Brien felt the effects of this blow for several minutes after it landed, and but for his speed Fitz might have gotten him. It was one of the hardest blows ever received by O'Brien. He says he felt it for a couple of minutes after it landed.

No. 4—Here is where Fitz came near putting in a finisher. He tried a left shift and he was poised in such a manner that, had he landed, his whole weight would have been in it and O'Brien would have fared badly. Jack made him miss it and then put a straight left to the face that straightened Bob up, and the next blow toppled him over.



No. 2—This is the right to the face that Jack landed a moment after he put in the stomach blow that so distressed Fitz. It made him dizzy and caused him to fall to the floor from his chair after the thirteenth round.

Jack O'Brien, Conqueror of Bob Fitzsimmons, Makes a Big Hit in Boxing Exhibition With Jack Williams at Local Theatre.

Jack O'Brien, whose victory over Fitzsimmons gives him at least some claim to the heavyweight title, made a decided hit in his first appearance on the stage at the Palace Theatre yesterday, when at both the afternoon and night performances the house was crowded to the doors to welcome the Quakertown master of the manly art.

O'Brien and his sparring partner, Jack Williams, the clever Philadelphia middleweight, gave three rounds of pretty boxing, demonstrating the eleventh, twelfth and thirteenth rounds of the great fight in San Francisco a week ago last Wednesday night. The crowd, to a man, pronounced it as fine an exhibition as they ever saw. It certainly was.

O'Brien will give two exhibitions daily at the theatre during the rest of the present week and will be pleased to meet all his old friends there.

Row Between College Fencers Puts

TECH IN NEW LEAGUE

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—A split in the Intercollegiate Fencing Association has been the cause of the establishing of two permanent organizations, and as a result Harvard, Cornell and Columbia have withdrawn to form the University Fencing Association. The split came because the colleges refused to admit the Massachusetts Institute of Technology of Boston, and Princeton, and now the Boston institution will be admitted to the new fencing club. Princeton, also, which was in the same boat as M. I. T., will become a member.

The charter members of the body are the three colleges which withdrew and they have elected officers as follows: President, Columbia; vice-president, Harvard; secretary-treasurer, Cornell.

There is also a likelihood that Michigan, Chicago and Georgetown will become members of the new league.

There has been dissensions all along in the Intercollegiate association, and the purpose of spreading fencing among the colleges has been lost sight of by the wrangling, and the foremost in this respect have been West Point and Annapolis.

Several colleges have made applications for admission, but were refused because West Point or Annapolis wanted the selection to be among a few.

The break in the parent body came last Wednesday when M. I. T. and Princeton were refused admission. Columbia took the initiative in the secession, and was followed by Harvard and Cornell.

The new University Fencing Association will hold its championships on March 9 and 10. The Intercollegiate Fencing Association will have its meet on March 16 and 17. It is said the champion teams in the two leagues will meet in a series of bouts to decide the national championship.

BABY MOOSE THAT WANTS AN OWNER

There's a bull moose for sale to the highest bidder at the Sportsmen's Show. A genuine little baby moose which is one of the features of the exhibit and one of the tamest specimens ever brought out of the woods. There is a reason why he has got to be sold because he can never return to his native heath which is up in New Brunswick near the St. John river.

It was last Summer that Jim Paul, the old chief of the Micmac tribe of Indians on the St. John river picked up the foundling when it was only three weeks old and took to his camp. There the game warden of the provinces heard of the discovery and told Jim that he would have to put the little baby moose back and let it be raised away but refused to stay more than five miles from camp and followed the game official and Jim who had brought him up on a bottle and artificial nourishment and the youngster would have surely perished left alone as he did not know how to rear himself. As a result it was decided that if Jim brought the moose to the Boston show and never returned with him there would be no charge brought against Jim capturing a moose out of season.

So here is a chance to get a husky, half grown moose, who will lick your hand and may be handy later on to hitch up and take a spin on the road. He can be found in a little pen by the entrance in the Indian village by the trout pond and there is generally a crowd striking his head, as he likes to be petted.

The advent of that Canadian species of landlocked salmon called Ouananiche is still being talked of in comparing it with his American kind from Maine.

Said Francis Weir, yesterday, who is an expert on the question: "There is considerable difference between the Maine and the Lake St. John variety, as you will notice while both are in the ranks. The American breed is no comparison as fighters. Those fish from across the border are about the gamiest thing ever seen of their size in the water and they are more active at all times as will be seen by watching them in the tank at the Sportsmen's Show.

They are far more beautiful to look upon and the different tints and colorings and the shiny sides easily distinguish it from the American breed. The Maine landlocked salmon are direct descendents from the ocean as the spawn was taken inland but with the Canadian breed which is found far from the source of salt water there is no accounting for their ancestry.

Howard DuBois added another triumph to his lecture fame when he talked on Alaska illustrated with rare lantern views. It was simply a repetition of his success of Saturday night when his reminiscences of camping life in the Rockies captivated his audience. His discourse on the frozen north carried his listeners along the coast from Vancouver to Skagway, and over the mountains of the coast 110 miles to the headwaters of the Yukon. Striking pictures of natural wonders were flashed on the screen that brought murmurs of admiration.

Today there will be no lectures and the biograph pictures will be of longer duration and the whole series will be seen afternoon and evening and will last about an hour an a half.

WILL CHANGE RACE TRACK CHARTER

Special to the Boston American.

DOVER, N. H., Jan. 2.—Frank Chelsie who managed the Granite State Park here for the late Frank Jones, said is one of the directors of the recently formed now in process of construction at Salem Depot, in authority for the statement that the great agitation in this State against the latter course will quietly die out, as the Rev. Thomas Chalmers, the head of the opposition, and Andrew Miller, of the Jockey Club of New York and New England Breeders Club the builders of the race track in question, have agreed upon certain changes in the charter that was awarded by the State. The principal one is the policing of the track during the race meetings by the local authorities and state police instead of by the Breeders' Club alone.

This point was the great bone of contention for the past three months, Mr. Chalmers and his followers insisting that through the charter reading as it did it gave to the owners of the race track unlimited power to run their meetings without the interference of the town or State police.

WINNER PLAYS THRESHIE.

The competition in the New England class A amateur billiard tournament began at the Hub Billiard Palace with a match between S. O. Engstrom, winner of the recent class B tournament, and C. M. Van Dyke. The former won by a score of 300 to 232. The winner of this tourney will meet Charles Threshie for the amateur championship of New England.

WHITE COMING TO HURL DEFI AT NELSON

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—Tom O'Rourke has received a letter from Jalez White, the clever English scrapper, announcing his intention of returning to America. White said that as soon as his bout with Bob Russell was decided he would pack his trunk and sail. This bout is to be decided at Birmingham on January 8.

This visit is for the purpose of meeting battling Nelson for a twenty-round go before any of the American clubs that will offer a suitable purse. It is a fight that is sure to bring almost some lively bidding, and the New Turnbo Club, of which O'Rourke is the guiding spirit, will make a lively effort to land the date.

The club will be ready in ample time and twenty rounds are entirely possible. It has been the announced intention of O'Rourke to have the real cons of none at all in his new venture, and this is a fight that would surely be in line with the expressed intention.

KENNEY VS. CORNELL.

The Unity Cycle Social and Athletic Club of Lawrence announces a meeting on Friday night, when Frank (Young) Kenney will meet Willie Cornell in the main bout. John A. Sullivan and George Freeman, Young Nelson and Fred Chisholm, and Bowsbull and Kid Winkle are also booked.

Jack O'Brien as he looks in street clothes.

BECAUSE OF FOUL DELIVERED IN THE FIFTH ROUND OF THEIR BOUT

GOODMAN LOSES TO DESHLER

A foul blow delivered by Kid Goodman in the fifth round lost him the battle with Dave Deshler of Cambridge last night at the Douglas A. C.

There was no mistaking the punch that send Deshler writhing to the floor as he had been hitting low from the start of the bout but had got away with it in spite of the claims by Deshler but the climax came in the fifth session when the Kid whipped in a wide left swing that caused Referee Flaherty to issue his judgment and his decisive action was the only correct one.

It was a furious contest from the tap of the first gong, both boys being strong as young bulls and with straight Queensbury rules prevailing they kept going with full steam on.

Goodman was there with all his aggressiveness and kept boring in and up to the time of the alarge ending he had the lead and threw it away by going outside the rule limits.

Deshler showed his mastership from the start and was never fighting better, and put rasping left hooks to Deshler's food pocket that made him wince, while he snapped his stinging left over to the face that had its effect.

KID'S STRONG INFIGHTING.

At infighting the Kid was always superior and kept ripping in short-arm punches to the head and body whenever a hand was free.

Deshler displayed seasons of brilliant attack and bothered the Kid at times by crossing his right and swing steamy lefts to the body that had plenty of force behind them, but he was willing to go into clinches and showed plainly that the Kid was hurting him.

He scored the only clean knockdown which came in the first round, but it did not phase the Kid.

Deshler forfeited his weight money as he refused to weigh in and Goodman was two pounds below the required figure, 130 pounds.

They got down to business at the opening and cut out a peppery pace, with Deshler keeping in stride with the Kid. He scabbed the Kid's nose, which only made the latter tear in, and he kept Deshler on the jump. Deshler caught the Kid a right cross that caused him to rumble, but he got up with a grin and reached some telling body blows. Deshler failed to measure his punches in the second and 3d, blindly, while the Kid was piling in with left and rights of the wild region and had Deshler distressed.

The third was a cyclone of wallops, with the Kid applying his energy to the body and hitting below the belt line, with Deshler appealing to the referee. The Cambridge boy, though unable to avoid the foul blows, kept at his work and rocked the Kid's head with a volley of right and left swings.

DESHLER SHOWS IN FRONT.

Deshler came to the front in the fourth and went at the Kid driving right and left jolts to the head and body and roughed it, meeting the Kid at his own game to hurting.

The semi-final bout between those sluggers, Jerry Grimes, the Market champ and Tom Holden, both of Cambridge was all to the merry, and the three rounds Golden was outpointing Grimes but in the fourth Golden tried to mix it and made a mistake and got his eye split open. The end came in the final round when Grimes got a right a killing right to the jaw and Golden didn't know what hit him for the few minutes while Grimes with his arms pounds advantage walked off the floor. Golden got a lot of admiration plucky exhibition.

Young Gray won from Young [illegible] six rounds in the first preliminary.

SPORTING NEWS BRIEFLY TOLD.

BASEBALL.

Announcement that Frank Rudsenz, outfielder with Washington, may become a Senator and take Caughlen's place is left, brought forth the fact that Dick Padden owns the slugging German for his St. Paul team.

* * *

Dave Brain says he is not enamored of the idea of going to Boston, but that he will give the Beaneaters his best services just the same.

* * *

"Pat does not care for me," was a popular song at the recent National League meeting, when Pat Powers undertook the task and pulverized Harry Pulliam to the presidency.

* * *

Hedges thinks the finest lot of youngsters has been secured for the Lost Browns that ever broke into baseball. Where is a good time to form lofty estimates of new talent?

* * *

M. Stanley Robison, president and treasurer of the St. Louis Cardinals, has signed John J. McGraw of Louisville as manager of the baseball team. McGraw is a baseball genius, and his signature attracted attention to the annual meeting of the National League handing the baseball chiefs of the National League a good many jars.

* * *

Manager Jake Stahl of the Washington team has gone for a six weeks trip to the Pacific Coast. He expects to make a deal for one or possibly two of the Pacific Coast League stars before he returns East.

* * *

Johnny Callahan is having more trouble with his baseball city league in Chicago than the manager of a prima donna. Then for he has been able to keep only two organizations into his fold, while the strongest of the amateur teams are fighting his scheme with a fair chance of knocking it out. It looks as though Callahan would be back in the big league fold after all.

Manager Murray has signed another college infielder. The new player is Edward Grant of Harvard, who will report to the Highlanders at Cleveland, filling in Lord's place as a utility baseball. Grant is highly recommended as a fielder, batting his last year at Harvard, and will be at liberty when the summer vacation arrives.

BOWLING.

Tuttem of the Odd Fellows' League is certainly hitting up the pace a big of late. His string of 100 was a corker, and it is doubtful if it will be topped at the Noddle Island alleys for some time.

* * *

Arthur McCabe's score of 125 has not been equaled this year in the McCarthy alleys, and the genuine Tom is looking for a bowler to equal this extra fine tally.

* * *

This fellow Penniman of the Telephone League is one of the most consistent bowlers in the city. It's seldom that he rolls a string less than 90.

* * *

Clarke, who topples the timber at the Bowdoin Alleys, refuses to let his average of nearly 100 lower the least. In a friendly match last night he rolled five consecutive strings over 100.

* * *

Mack of the Sudburys from hasn't struck his true gait yet, but was in the youngsters who ta[illegible] to be bowling. That will be surprising news to his friends in the East.

* * *

Charlie O'Rourke will meet Tommy Sullivan again on the Unity Club, Lawrence, on January 16. The bout will be best of the six matches between the pair.

* * *

Jack O'Brien and regarding Reno for a fight. The crowd, which was at Reno, had been the meekest and most cowed crowd ever in sight to make the venture profitable.

* * *

Chester [illegible] challenged the winner of the Goodman-[illegible] bout and is likely to be matched with Deshler at the local club.

* * *

There is much dissatisfaction over straight bowling rules, so the "[illegible] brand" methods stop a lot of rough-house fighting and fooling.

* * *

Joe Gans is touring through the Middle West picking up stakes here and there. The Young Joe from now on will be with little excuse in no relation to go man with the iron jaw.

BOXING.

Jack O'Brien says that Mike Twin Sullivan will beat Battling Nelson if they ever meet, and remarks that the Cambridge boy is much underrated.

* * *

According to George Siler, the boxing authority, it was a draw tournament between Chicago and Milwaukee last night. Abe Attell, Johnny Kilbane and Harry Lewis all fought and for this was not credited to the Hub town as a victory, which would have made it three bouts all.

* * *

Kid Norman, who was to George Gardner's corner when he fought Fitzsimmons, thinks that the latter would have won if he had not received an attack of stage fright.

* * *

Jimmy Walsh will meet a tough boy in Phil Lavoy at the Douglas A. C. on Saturday night. The boys have agreed on 125 pounds, 9 o'clock.

* * *

Word comes from the Coast that John Twin Sullivan is to be boomed. That will be surprising news to his friends in the East.

* * *

Charlie O'Rourke will meet Tommy Sullivan again on the Unity Club, Lawrence, on January 16. The bout will be best of the six matches between the pair.

* * *

Jack O'Brien and regarding Reno for a fight. The crowd, which was at Reno, had been the meekest and most cowed crowd ever in sight to make the venture profitable.

* * *

Chester [illegible] challenged the winner of the Goodman-[illegible] bout and is likely to be matched with Deshler at the local club.

* * *

There is much dissatisfaction over straight bowling rules, so the "[illegible] brand" methods stop a lot of rough-house fighting and fooling.

* * *

Joe Gans is touring through the Middle West picking up stakes here and there. The Young Joe from now on will be with little excuse in no relation to go man with the iron jaw.

HARNESS HORSE

It shows the popularity of speedways when 5,000 persons attended the opening of the one in Washington, D. C., recently, and fully one-third were fair sex. Quite a number of the latter were also taken, and about a mile and seventy yards in 1:49 flat.

Here is a distance that has earned champion honors. In the past season Nelly G., 2:15¼, has made a mile in 2:04¼, and Lou Dillon, 2:04¼, better—Hogan, 2:10¼; Jaks, 2:10¾, and King Direct, 2:08¼—something no other pace in the world ever accomplished to make it better, although Lou Dillon covered the record in races and two of them over half-mile tracks.

TO SICK MEN

Confidential and Fair Treatment Guaranteed

Blood Poison, Kidney, Rectal and Private Troubles, Piles, Fistula, Impotency, Debility, Stricture all successfully and successfully treated.

DR. WEINSTEIN, Specialist in Men
218 Tremont St. Next Hotel Touraine
BOSTON, MASS.
Hours 9 to 8:30. Sundays and Holidays 10 to 3.

BLOOD POISON
Either primary, secondary or tertiary, producing any of the following symptoms: Sores, Ulcers, Rheumatism, Old Sores, Ulcers, Mucous Patches in mouth, Hair or Eyebrows falling out, etc., quickly, positively and forever expelled by the wonderful Herbal Compound. A few weeks' use of which makes a clean, healthy skin. Write for complete history with the first signs and other treatment. Full information, and a bottle of trial, sent free of charge to all sufferers. Address Prof. F. C. FOWLER, New London, Conn.

$2 To Cure Private Disease
A cure guaranteed or money refunded. Why pay more? I cure Blood Poison and all private diseases. All consultations strictly confidential. I will restore lost vigor in young or old. Free consultation. Hours 10 to 7. Sun. 8 to 1. DR. HAYDEN Medical Co., 220 Tremont Street.

ELECTRICITY—HEAT
The only dry cell bulk battery in the world. Always charged, ready for use. Cures Weak Men, Weak Backs, Lumbago, Rheumatism, Constipation, Stomach, Kidney and Liver Troubles.
Write for my 90-page illustrated book, mailed free, and testimonials from cured patients.
DR. S. A. HALL, 427 W. 42d St., New York.

I Cure Men Only

Blood Poison, Nervous Debility, disease of the man from youthful indiscretion, excesses or self-pollution, BE WISE. Consult me.

Dr. A. Hargrove
The Enstlish Specialist
Office hours 9 to 8. Sundays 9 to 5. Consultation free—Send for book, free. Over 1343 Washington St., Boston, Mass.

TRY BLEILER'S CAFE
—FOR A FIRST CLASS DINNER—
—BEST OF ORDER COOKING—
CONFECTIONERY, CIGARS AND SOFT DRINKS
82 BEDFORD ST. BOSTON

HEARST'S BOSTON AMERICAN
Published Daily and Sunday at 80 and 82 Summer Street, Boston, Mass.

NEW ENGLAND NEWSPAPER PUBLISHING CO.

Entered at second class matter, March 21, 1904, at the post office at Boston, Mass.

Prices: Daily, one Cent; Sunday, Five Cents.

Terms: Postage included for the United States of Boston, Canada and Mexico.

Daily only: One year $6.00
Six months 3.00
One month ..... .50

Sunday only: One year 2.00
Six months 1.00
One month ..... .20

Daily and Sunday: One year 8.00
Six months 4.00
One month ..... .70

Boston American Daily Home Magazine

TEN LOVE COMMANDMENTS FOR WIVES

1—Thou shalt wed none but thine own true love—neither for money nor social position, nor because thou art fair.

2—Thou shalt look with a hundred eyes upon a man before thou marriest him. Afterward thou shalt wear blinders.

3—Thou shalt beat upon the cymbals and proclaim thy husband master, so shalt thou boss in peace in private.

Let Your Husband Be Master in His Own Eye

By Dorothy Dix

THE fourth commandment of the married women is this:

Thou shalt beat upon the cymbals and proclaim thy husband master, so shalt thou boss in peace in private.

There is one supreme desire that every man cherishes from the cradle to the grave. It is to be the Head of his House.

This yearning to be the Czar of the heartstone, the autocrat of the family circle, amounts to a positive mania with the entire masculine sex, and causes more domestic complications, for by it many be found the true explanation of why so many of them pick out fools instead of intelligent women for wives.

A man sees a clever, sensible, educated, sensible, practical woman, who knows as much as he does, and is really fitted to be a companion to him, but he does not ask her to be his wife because he is afraid of her—afraid that she would usurp the domestic throne.

Then he meets up with a little simpering pilot of a girl, without an idea in her head, and who looks as if she would be wax in anybody's hands, and she straightway marries her, because he believes that she will never dispute his authority, and that he will never have the slightest trouble in managing her, and that she will never dream of disputing his right to reign supreme in the household.

HIS WIFE'S WISHES
SURE—AS SOON AS YOU ASK ME FIRST
DID I HEAR YOUR MAJESTY SAY "YES"?
PETITION TO HIS MAJESTY KING HUSBAND FROM HIS HUMBLE SUBJECT WIFE
PRAYER INKED DOWN ON

Let him think he is the real ruler. He will be happy and it don't cost anything.

Smart Woman's Fault

OF course things don't always work out according to this schedule. Indeed, they seldom do, for a reasonable woman can always be reasoned with, but a fool can never be turned from her folly, and there are no other such domestic tyrannies as those established by weak, brainless wives.

It is, however, to men's fear that the clever women will oust them from their jobs as head of the house that the smart girl owes the fact that she is a spinster.

Having obtained a husband, a woman's chief business in life is to keep him happy and pacified, and content with his lot.

In doing this nothing is more important than for her to recognize this masculine fetish, and her failure to do so is a potent source of domestic discord.

The real stranger who has entered into many a home and broken it up is the wife wearing the brown paper bag.

The broad assumption is that woman is the weaker vessel, and that the husband is the more fitted by nature, by training and by experience to be the head of the house and the arbiter of the family destiny, but this lovely theory does not always hold water.

Neither does the contention that a woman should not marry a man that she is not willing to obey, and to whom she is not willing to submit.

Use Some Tact

MANY a man is eminently lovable, and likable and marriageable who has not qualified for the family pilot and is not fitted to steer the domestic bark through a single whirlpool.

Nevertheless, it is a foolish wife who ostentatiously takes charge of the wheel and announces that she is running things.

Let it never be forgotten that the United States is the only country in the world where the wife rules the "roost," and the United States lends the world in the number of divorces.

Since man loves to believe that he is the head of the house, it is the woman's province to foster the harmless illusion and let him derive all the pleasure possible from it.

It is so easy to ask your husband's advice, so little trouble to consult him; it takes so little effort to remember to quote his opinion, and it is such awfully good form to show publicly that you don't henpeck him.

Moreover, the rewards are great, for the average man, having had his authority recognized—his technical right to decide domestic questions conceded—doesn't really care a button what his wife does—whether she sends Mary to Miss Smith's dancing school or Miss Jones's, or whether she has pink paper or blue put on the parlor walls.

Don't Henpeck Him

IT is the principle that he stands out for, and when you hear a man announce that his wife never does anything without asking his permission, you may be sure that he is happily married and his wife works him to the queen's taste.

For in these days of emancipated woman a man is so grateful to a wife who acknowledges his authority that she may do with him as she will.

Yet in spite of this the land is crowded with women who not only boss their husbands, but have no shame in making the poor creatures jump through the loop in public to make a holiday for deriding onlookers.

How often do we see a masterful woman walking ahead of her husband as she enters street cars or theatres and saying to him, "Sit there," as if he were a little boy, or calmly ordering him about as if he were a servant?

There are plenty of men who would not dare bring a friend home unannounced to dinner, who know better than to ask any of their own relatives to visit them, who wipe their feet on the doormat before entering their own houses and who say "Ma'am" to their wives.

Husband's One Right

IN any woman, who has established this kind of censorship over her husband, vain enough to believe that he still loves her, or that he sticks to her for any other reason than because he lacks the courage to run away? If there is she deludes herself.

It is the part of a good wife to help her husband "save his face," as our diplomatic Chinese friends say, and to foster by her outward deference his childlike faith that he is boss.

It pleases him and it doesn't hurt her, or it is the surest and quickest road to getting her own way without having to fight for it.

More than that, good taste demands it, for there are few more unattractive sights than that of the strenuous one proclaiming to all that she is the cock of the walk.

The husband has the right of the one who pays the freight to at least figure as the nominal head of the family, and it is a poor woman who begrudges him this empty honor.

IF YOU WERE CAPTAIN, WHAT WOULD YOU DO?

Plung Wo

HERE are a few of the hundreds of letters received this morning in answer to this fascinating question. The debate is waxing hot all over New England.

Men, women and children are having part in the argument. Where do you stand? Have you yet come to blows over it?

To show the wide range of opinions and arguments, the following letters are arranged in parallel columns. Read them all, no matter what your opinion. See if the or another of them will not convince you your first judgment was wrong.

Here Is the Captain's Dilemma

ON a sinking ship are three passengers—a married man, an aged woman and a little girl. There is only one life preserver.

To whom should the captain give the last lifebelt—the aged woman, whose lease of life has nearly expired?—the man in the prime of life, with wife and children dependent upon him?—or the little girl, with nearly all her life before her? What would YOU do?

A cash prize of $2 will be given each day for best letters in answer to this interesting question. Tell which you would save. Give your reasons. Letters must not be over 150 words in length. Address Home Page Editor, BOSTON AMERICAN, Nos. 80-82 Summer street, Boston.

GIRL

Why the Little Girl Should Have the Lifebelt

SAVE LITTLE GIRL

EDITOR HOME MAGAZINE:

I think the captain should give the lifebelt to the little girl. A little child is more helpless than a strong man or woman. But if it is a choice of the woman or girl I say save the little girl, who has all her whole life before her. A child should ever be placed in such a position. I would save a helpless child first on any wreck. I could for the older man, as you say, has a family dependent upon him, but the man should try and save himself. A child would not have the presence of mind to do what a grown man or woman would to save herself. The child has not come to the years of understanding.

Therefore I say, save a poor, weak child in preference to older people. The little girl should be more frightened than a grown man or woman, therefore I think the captain could not stand before those three people on a sinking ship without saving a little child first.

MAURICE S. THOMPSON.

Box 76, Damariscotta Mills, Me.

HONOR'S DEMAND

EDITOR HOME MAGAZINE:

If I would give the lifebelt to the little girl. That which is called honor is what gives worth to the life we live. Honor would demand that I choose between the little girl and the woman, both being equally weak in their ability to help themselves. The little girl with her life's prospect before her, not possessing the resignation to meet a mortal crisis that nature forcibly impart, should have the strongest claim.

The old woman with the sands of life almost run, with nothing to hope for save a peaceful death, which hope being placed in jeopardy, it caused be thought incongruous that she would surrender her chances to favor the girl.

The man, though with a family dependent on him, has the strength of a man to battle for his own existence.

DENNIS J. SHEA.

No. 53 Fairbanks street, Brighton.

DREARY, INDEED

EDITOR HOME MAGAZINE:

If I were the captain's place I would save the little girl. She is just beginning life and may have many chances in the world. If the world did not have young people it would be very dreary. For the young man I think he ought to be able to fight his own battle. He may have a family that depends upon him for their support. But men should be able to fight battles better than women.

The aged woman has had chances to enjoy life, and I think she has had time enough to enjoy herself. If I could save them all I would do it. As I can only save one, I will give the lifebelt to the little girl.

MARY E. McGUIRE.

No. 12 Catawba street, Roxbury.

NO LIMIT

EDITOR HOME MAGAZINE:

If I were the captain I would give the lifebelt to the little girl. To the mere of life she has all her life before her, with great possibilities for good. She may be the mother of a family, and there is no limit to the good a pure woman can do. Can be more easily saved, as she is of less weight, and, with the lifebelt, she is certain of safety.

[illegible] has a stout or good chance of [illegible] without the belt as with it. [illegible] As to his family, [illegible] protected. I'll risk them. [illegible] To the mere of life [illegible] duty to [illegible]

[illegible] CK.

MAN

Arguments in Favor of the Man in the Case

REASONS IT ALL OUT

EDITOR HOME MAGAZINE:

The aged woman's death would cause mourning among those near and dear to her, but the duties of her life are nearly done.

The little girl's death would bring sorrow to many hearts, yet the great duties of her life have not yet begun. She might fulfil these duties with great honor to herself, and she might not—death in some other form might still claim her during childhood.

The man in the prime of life, with a wife and children, is surrounded with important duties, and how can he, and would these responsibilities except by death, life of wife and children, be taken out of his hands to supply necessary food, clothing and shelter. The wife needs his counsel and help in training themselves for their care. In fact, his care and protection means life itself to them.

Therefore, save the man.

A. C. HAMILL.

No. 20 Blossom street, Worcester.

FOR FAMILY'S SAKE

EDITOR HOME MAGAZINE:

If all could not be saved the captain would certainly insist on "sinking with the ship." The aged woman, true Christian spirit, would never take the lifebelt and leave the little girl to go down to a watery grave. The man having a family dependent upon him, if saved, would not only be of benefit to them, but his chances are greater of being able to save the little girl. In deciding this question I should give the preference to the one who represents the greatest number. By all odds give the last lifebelt to the man.

AL. ALLEN.

No. 306 Washington street, Boston.

A BIT PESSIMISTIC

EDITOR HOME MAGAZINE:

If I have decided that it would be best to give the lifebelt to the man.

Life for the woman is nearly expired, and the child perhaps will know happiness in far greater extent than she would if she were left to face the hard battles of this world.

On the other hand the saving of the man's life will bring better results because he can save wife and family, that perhaps if he were lost would die of hunger and poverty.

CATHERINE COSTELLO.

No. 679 Salem street, South Groveland.

ANOTHER VIEW OF IT

EDITOR HOME MAGAZINE:

Without hesitation I would say give the belt to the man with wife and family dependent upon him. The woman would probably never survive in the icy waters, while the captain is perhaps a better sailor than the average man would be, and would be better able to battle with the waves.

So give the belt to the man in the prime of life. At this moment, when death is staring him in the face, his thoughts are of home and his little ones, and he will in no doubt make a brave effort to save his little girl, who is powerless to save herself.

No. 926 Forest avenue, Portland, Me.

Yesterday's Prize Winner

ESTHER FARRELL,

South Main Street,

Fall River

WOMAN

Many Say Woman Should Be First Considered

GIRL MIGHT KICK

EDITOR HOME MAGAZINE:

If I were the captain I would save the old woman, because she is too old to help herself and would go to the bottom, whereas the girl could jump and swim around until the captain could try and get help.

The young woman would probably save herself by swimming, and is strong enough to cling to something until help comes.

PAUL MONAHAN.

No. 299 Belmont street, Worcester.

"BY ALL MEANS"

EDITOR HOME MAGAZINE:

If I were the young woman, for it would be too bad to give the lifebelt to a child and see the old woman and little girl drowned. In all cases the aged should come first.

The little girl may have a hard life before her, and the young woman has some friends to care for his children.

By all means save the old woman.

MISS MARY E. O. NEILL.

No. 401 Fairmount street, Woonsocket, R. I.

CHILDREN WAITING

EDITOR HOME MAGAZINE:

I would save the old lady whose children probably are waiting for her.

Of course the little girl has her life before her, but she is young enough to see half of it, and the man may have a wife and children depending on him, but she could marry again.

The children who are waiting for their mother could never have their own mother again.

MRS. JOHN HANAN.

No. 196 Shawmut avenue, Boston.

TO SAVE DISGRACE

EDITOR HOME MAGAZINE:

If the captain is as strong and capable as he ought to be, and has given the BOSTON AMERICAN, I think he would undertake to save himself and the old lady.

He would give the life preserver to the man and let him try to save himself and the little girl.

If life must be lost any way it seems to me in this way of planning the advantages are more evenly divided. The man will have the chance to save himself and the child. Both he and the captain will be spared the agony of being powerless, for even though they are lost they will have done all they could.

The woman will be more satisfied in this way also. A good woman could not take the only way of saving both a child and another woman's support to perish.

No. 130 Devon street, Roxbury.

LIFE IS PRECIOUS

EDITOR HOME MAGAZINE:

I would give the life preserver to the aged woman, the most helpless of the three. Life would probably be as sweet to her as to the others. The man, who is strong, might properly prefer the helpless to himself, could take care of himself and the girl after getting hold of some of the wreckage and thus keep himself and the girl afloat.

The old lady would not have the strength to cling to anything she might get hold of while by having on a life preserver she could float with no effort. Life is precious to all.

D. HATHAWAY.

South Newbury, Vt.

"SOMEBODY'S MOTHER"

EDITOR HOME MAGAZINE:

If I were the captain of that ship I would give the last lifebelt to the old lady. She is feeble and is somebody's mother. The man has a chance of saving himself and also the child. RUTH NAOMI ALLEN.

No. 229 Garden street, Auburn, Me.

A BANKER DESIGNED THIS HAT FOR HIS DAUGHTER

Would You Trust a Man to Design Your New Year Turban for You?

A BOSTON banker's daughter even dares to trust the designing of her hats to her father. In this she shows not only her affection, but real wisdom. This, the latest and smart- is a striking ornament made from a Japanese obi. It is formed of beautifully matched diamonds surrounding two large emeralds. At the other end of the long pin on which this head is mounted, and which reaches to the left side, is a clamp of the same precious stones. Loops of ribbon rest against the hair at the back.

It is fully conceded that the banker is a clever business man, but who would dream of his blossoming out as a hat designer? Even his own family were fairly blinded by the sunshine that streamed down from overhead. He was halfway between the old ship and the shore, and there was not a living being to be seen anywhere along the beach.

"The first thing I must do," thought Jack to himself, "is to find the other entrance to this cave and release Parsons and his men who are in the storehouse."

So, after shutting a few minutes to recover his strength, he swam ashore, congratulating himself that the two revolvers were both loaded with waterproof cartridges, so that he would not be left entirely defenceless if enemies attacked him.

A brief rest on the warm sand and he felt able to continue his journey. Judging the distance as nearly as possible, he started off across the island.

But he had gone only a short distance when, as he stopped at a little hill, he heard his name shouted by a hasty pair of lungs.

"Jack, Jack," someone was shouting.

It was the voice of Parsons. Where he was going he could not make out, but he kept shouting, and in a minute Jack could make out the tall figure of the captain waving his arms and running along a path that crossed the one Jack was following.

"Hooray," shouted Jack.

He was delighted to think he had one ally left.

"Bind to see you," said Parsons. "Just managed to get me and here I am. My men are all safe, and in an hour we can have them all here. You lie down and rest yourself, and I will go and get them."

Jack thanked that the game was up for Winston and Hunston were in the cavern, and told how it had come about.

"The question now is, how are we going to get them out," said Jack. "We must get Hunston out, anyway. I shouldn't worry much if it was only Stung Cox and Hunston."

Parsons started for his men, and Jack laid down.

Then a thought struck him.

He would examine the pump house where the big pipe terminated, and see what could be done if after Hunston entered it was plain to be seen that whoever had been with Hunston had stopped up the small bunch in the engine-house leading to the pump house. The pipe and the heavy wall alongside it, and the explosion had opened the pipe flat, so that exit was impossible.

Jack set to work to think. Here was a new puzzle. Hunston must have some other enemy who wanted his life and had decoyed him into crawling into the pipe with the intention of shutting him in there to die.

Jack figured that a crowbar properly worked from the outside would very soon reopen the pipe and make a way. Parsons, but the men had returned. Jack told his story and the men had returned.

"Well," said Jack, "I'll order come from behind him.

He had believed himself alone in the pump house, but evidently Hunston had not seen had crept close while his back was turned.

In a moment he was confronted by a hideous Malay. When the man talked rapidly in the Malay tongue, Jack was amazed and fear.

Then the other man came into view and the two men shouted in a frenzy of joy.

The man who had spoken English began the conversation.

"Mr. Jack," said he, "I ask your pardon, but until we absolutely understand each other I must take the precaution of tying you."

"I have your friend Hunston safe in the cavern, and I need your help. I want to get the treasure which is under the island. I want you to help me, and I will divide it with you. Hunston can vouch for it."

"Well," said Jack.

"Well, then, if you promise to help me I cannot afford to take any chance of letting you loose. You find out where your captain and his men are and bring them here. Then if I don't—" said Jack.

"Then I shall have to leave you with the men in the storehouse."

Jack was considering how to gain time when Parsons shouted again.

"Let me think it over, said he, "and when I have had time to consider I will let you know my decision."

Then another unexpected third party appeared into the discussion.

The smiling face of Steel peered through the bushes and he hurriedly announced himself themselves on the Malays.

The struggle was brief. The Malays were soon bound and Jack and Steel and Parsons and his men were in Hunston entered since the earthquake that had shattered the cavern.

Things looked better now, and Jack hoped for success.

If he could get Hunston and the treasure, too, his campaign would have been more than successful.

TO BE CONTINUED.

ADVICE TO THE LOVELORN

By Beatrice Fairfax

This has caused me a great many heartaches.—G. L. F.

IF I were you I would write him and say that you quite agree with him that you should part, but that you would like to remain friends with him. Do not write as though you wanted him back; let him see quite plainly that you do not. He is not treating you at all fairly.

A QUESTION OF LOVE

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

A certain gentleman friend is deeply in love with me. He is not exceptionally told me so, but that he believes I love him. I have avoided him when he was leading up to the subject. I do not know whether I care for him or not. He has been to places of amusement with me, but always with my brother along. He has given me presents, which I have returned, and invited me to theatres, etc., which I have refused. He is very much liked about a year, and I am nineteen. He is twenty. I would like to have known him, he is sensitive, yet he always comes back and is not offended. He never gets mad at me. He seems to take to no other girl but me, and at times I have given him a little, a very little encouragement, I think. He is possessor of a very handsome countenance, but has a good reputation, a good character, and a kind heart, especially to me. Now, do you think I should let him tell me his intentions and accept him? I don't know whether I love him or not. DOUBTFUL.

YOU surely must have some idea as to whether you love him well enough to accept him. Would you be willing to give him up to another girl? He seems a very estimable young man, and I would advise you to think it over seriously. I think you will find that you care a good deal for him.

HINTS ON HEALTH AND BEAUTY

By the Professor

DEAR PROFESSOR:

Would you kindly advise me what to do for hair moles on my face that are now very large. Is there any to be getting larger? READER.

THE best remedy for hair moles is the electric needle, but I should never advise one to influence you into experimenting with them. Go to a reliable dermatologist.

HOME MADE COLD CREAM

VENUS cream, considered an excellent skin food, is made as follows: One quarter of an ounce each of spermaceti and pure white wax, a quarter of a pound each of almond oil and cocoa butter melted with two ounces of lanolin. When thoroughly mixed stir in one dram of balsam of Peru and one dram of rose water. Pour off the clear portion, add two fluid drams of orange flower water and stir briskly.

NEW YEAR FINDS ALL THE THEATRES IN BOSTON CROWDED

'OLIVER TWIST' FINELY DONE AT CASTLE SQUARE

Ugly Hues and Tender Tones of Tragic Story Well Brought Out.

JOHN CRAIG PLAYS FAGIN

Lovers of Dickens—and that means big houses and intelligent ones—are moving in the direction of the Castle Square Theatre this week, for the Shakespeare Stage Society is enacting there the story of Oliver Twist. That story, which, as the great writer of fiction himself said, "touches the soul and most in our common nature," need not be dwelt upon in this comment. Suffice it to say that the Castle Square production, which the stock company is presenting by special permission of Augustin Thomas, brings out most vividly both the ugly lines and the beautiful, the sombre tones of the tragic story.

And Boston is indeed fortunate in being permitted to see the production of so difficult, yet so powerful a piece by such excellent talent as the players headed by John Craig and Lillian Kemble.

Mr. Craig, as Fagin, that master of wickedness, is up to a severe test in the role that dominates the play, but he proves equal to it throughout, and adds to his well-won laurels.

The repulsive Bill Sikes is acted by John Waldron most effectively, and Monks, the villain of another and still higher station, is ably taken care of by Charles Mackay.

Lillian Kemble is in one of her strongest roles, as Nancy Sikes, the character which Amelia Bingham has been appearing in at the Fifth Avenue at New York. In the many scenes in which she is the central figure, those of Fagin's den and notably that on London Bridge, where she makes what proves to be the sacrifice of her own life for Oliver Twist, she is most appealing, giving the play its tenderest pathos.

Miss Marion Balter is the attractive and lovable Oliver, while William McKay contributes most of what little comedy there is in his impersonation of Mr. Grimwig.

The scenery, which is shifted in many times, is a very pleasing feature of the production. Nothing approaching the same effect has ever been attempted at this theatre, where scenery in stage settings is a watchword.

"Oliver Twist," on account of the tremendous success of the two opening performances, will be continued through next week. The production of "Madame Sans Gane" will be put on a few weeks later.

EVERY SEAT SOLD AT GLOBE THEATRE

Every seat in the Globe Theatre was sold yesterday afternoon for the opening production of "Under Southern Skies," a drama from the pen of Dr. Hale Hamilton, author of "Way Down East." The play is by no means a great one, but it was seldom been better done than by the company that is presenting it at the Globe this week.

The play deals with the efforts of a young Southerner to prove that his dead mother has disgraced the family name, a secret which he has carefully concealed that he uses as a threat to force her to become his wife. In the end he is foiled by the mother, who returns to her husband after many years.

As Lelia Crofton, the girl who so nearly fails into the trap laid for her, Mabel Trunnelle was all that could be desired. The part is a hard one for a young actress, but Miss Trunnelle carried it through successfully and won well-deserved applause.

The work of Henry Walthall, as Steve Dunbney, the villain of the piece, was good enough to earn him hearty hisses, and George Le Guere, as Barrisch Mayne, loved by Lelia, made a handsome and convincing boy-sweetheart.

John T. Burke was excellent as Major Crofton, as were Frederick Clayton and Harry Collins as Ambrose Mayor and Colonel Paul Dunbney. Of the others who appeared in the cast Miss Stella Congdon easily carried off the honors for a clever and cleverly clever impersonation of a colored "mammy," Josephine Cashman as Lelia's sister, and Miss Mona Barclay as Fifi Hampton, also deserved praise.

A pleasing feature was the singing by a quartette of Southern gentlemen, whiling up with "Dixie."

The play is well staged and the Hallowe'en party in the second act and the climax of the third were particularly well done.

CORBETT APPEARS IN NEW PLAY BY SHAW

Special to the Boston American.

NEW HAVEN, Ct., Jan. 1.—James J. Corbett appeared in the first performance of Bernard Shaw's "Cashel Byron's Profession" at the Hyperion Theatre to-night, and was rewarded with tumultuous applause. He got only pronounced again in the act in light comedy, but revealed unsuspected ability in emotional work. The play is dramatized by Stanislaus Stange and is the only work by Shaw in which there is not a single love story. Margaret Wycherly, Lionel Adams, Joseph Kilgour, Frederick Allee Leigh and Marion Tuttle are in the cast.

After the performance a dinner was given at the Union League Club in honor of Mr. Corbett. Members of the Governor's staff and many prominent New York theatrical folk were present.

"LOOPS THE LOOP" UPON A BICYCLE

Marcelous Carlotta, the only woman in the world who dares to "Loop the Loop" on a bicycle, astounded all who saw her audiences at the Old Howard yesterday by her masterly handling of the wheel. She is new to Boston. The loop is 25 feet in diameter, smooth as glass and the speed is terrific. She is the chief bit of the bill.

The other features are Harry Le Clair, the wonderful violinist; Bert Thorne and company in "An Uptown Flat"; Miles and Raymond, Burkhardt and Berry, Hope and Koppe, George H. Diamond, Ward and Russell, Clark and Florette and Camille and Pondo.

COMING ATTRACTIONS.

Beginning next Monday matinee at the Globe, Nat M. Wills, in his new musical comedy, "The Duke of Duluth," will make his first appearance in Boston for a week.

Marie Cahill will follow Raymond Hitchcock at the Tremont a fortnight hence in a musical success, "Modern Modern Maids," the book and lyrics are by Edwin Milton Royle and George V. Hobart, and the music by Silvio Hein.

Sarah Bernhardt's engagement at the Boston Theatre opens on January 15, and will continue for two weeks. During this time she will present ten different plays.

SOCIETY PAYS TRIBUTE TO ITS IDOL, JOHN DREW

His New Comedy, "De Lancey," Much Better Suited to Him Than Previous Pieces.

In Society's calendar yesterday was a day to be doubly observed. It was notable as the first day of the new year. This was its better significance. More eminently it was the day of John Drew's first night in Boston—and John Drew's first night each year is a rite with Society.

That was why, a quarter before 11 o'clock last night, Hollis street from Tremont to Washington, and Tremont from away down to Eliot, and the one or two immaterial side streets, were jammed with the carriages and automobiles of Society. Those who came out of the Hollis Street Theatre were greatly pleased with the play. That is the "report" in current taste in Boston—and John Drew's first night each year is a rite with Society.

That was why, a quarter before 11 o'clock last night, Hollis street from Tremont to Washington, and Tremont from away down to Eliot, and the one or two immaterial side streets, were jammed with the carriages and automobiles of Society. Those who came out of the Hollis Street Theatre were greatly pleased with the play. That is the "report" in current taste in Boston—and John Drew's first night each year is a rite with Society.

It is enough to say of the play that it is a comedy and not a farce, with just the least bit of melodrama in one act—a touch that is becoming, and that will keep it from being a farce. It is a comedy of the immaterial side streets, more than it would be in Metropolitan America; that the dialogue is clever and in places even brilliant; and that, like nearly all this playwright's work, the whole piece has a pleasing taste in the mouth" after it is all over.

There is fully as much that could be said of the presentation. The piece is staged—well, as Mr. Drew always stages a piece, correctly. All of its three scenes are effective. The second is especially pretty. The company is of that sort which is always spoken of as "well-balanced"—than which there is no better word. Margaret Dale is still Mr. Drew's leading woman, and she continues to be. Her convincing art increases rather than diminishes. Kate Meek is as delightful as she has ever been. Doris Keene makes a great deal of a bright part, although she is not dropping as many of her epaulettes as her admirers hoped a year ago. Gerald Lawrence, Hemitre Johnstone, W. Bechtel and Arthur Buckler complete the capable portion among the men.

The stage plays a subtler role in the piece, even for the Hollis. A list of those present is better, perhaps, than a paragraph would read like an extract from the Boston Blue Book.

SUCCESS ATTENDS 'THE GALLOPER' HERE

Success continues to attend Raymond Hitchcock at the Tremont Theatre, where "The Galloper" sprang into favor with a bound a week ago and promises to continue there throughout the fortnight remaining of the engagement announced. The unpretentious, original methods and absorbing humor find favor in the play, which is nearly all lively farce, but he improves with every opportunity and even when he is the last act in a manner that proves him capable of much more serious work.

He has the support of an admirable company, and of more than these it is attained by Mr. Frawley, Mr. Davenport, Miss Comstock and Miss Archer. The play is picturesquely staged, the sets for the first and second acts being really best surpassed in beauty, and the capital manner in which the ballet dressed crowds are handled in several scenes adds much to the pleasure of the spectator.

ADE'S COMEDY KEEPS EVERYONE IN PICKLE

Pickles are sour, but "Just Out of College" has proved one of the sweetest comedy successes that Boston has known in a long time. For the past three weeks the Boston Museum has been filled every day as a small audience. The performance last evening marked the opening of the farewell week in New England, there is no sort of comedy that tickles the Boston fancy more than one by George Ade, and the heartiness of the reception that was given the lively work successor to "The College Widow" and "The County Chairman."

One joke follows another in quick succession, and the conversation upon the stage fairly bristles with humor. The lines are not the sort that are found in the average playgoer, and no diagram is necessary to make the audience know what is going on. It is a different matter when to stop, and people go out of the house before they know what they have seen upon the stage. Joseph Wheelock, Jr., is fine for the world like a fellow with his sheepskin just received, but in every-day life he is not always says, he is the slickest thing seen in a long time.

CHERRIES ARE RIPE AT THE COLUMBIA

As refreshing as a dip in the briny in midsummer, as full of laughs as the comic section of the SUNDAY AMERICAN and as appetizing as a plate of strawberries and cream was the entertainment given by the "Cherry Blossom Burlesquers at the Columbia yesterday afternoon and evening. Two rattling good burlettas, interspersed with capital lyrics and good ensemble numbers, added much to the enjoyment, and the dances and costuming outshone anything seen at this house for a long time. The crowning feature was a stage full of Amezi can beauties.

The first skit, "Wrong Count and Right Count," is a lively affair, in which Eddie Evans, John H. Perry, Lillian Perry, and Lydia Carlisle were the chief merry dispensers. The others, burletta, "The Treasure Seekers," and "Under the Bamboo" is a constant state of good humor.

Harry L. Pringle, the leading man of the olio, was the wonder of all wonders in his persean novelty. His work was really remarkable, and the changes were made in such rapidity as to fairly leave one breathless. The best thing he did was where he changes from a policeman to a boy in a minute and then to a jolly Celt, and back to a policeman. The three changes were seen running around a brick wall, and it seems scarcely credible that it is one man who impersonates the three.

NEW CHARACTERS AT THE LYCEUM

Characters new to the vaudeville stage are introduced at the Lyceum this week by Harry Bryant and his burlesquers in the two-act burlesque, "Dickies of the Navy." Bryant's Burlesquers always attract more than passing attention, for they organize the best in the business. Their new burlesque is a rattling farce.

In the olio are Hyde and Nevins, the Garrity Sisters, Nixon and the Mendelville, the Bush Brothers Trio, and Darmody the Indian Club manipulator.

WOULD WED GIRL SEVEN FEET TALL

Leah May was again one of the "high cards" at Austin & Stone's Museum yesterday. Her seven feet two inches stood up, and the jack roses in her corsage were hardly more brilliant than the coloring in her cheeks when a young man in the audience, without warning, blurted out an offer of marriage. With becoming modesty, Miss May assured him that she was "too young," and thanked him. Being only nineteen, she will wait for a few years yet, she says.

The man with three legs; Gwendolin Youngman, the poly-poly lass of 500 pounds; all the others in the curio hall and the stage show are particularly interesting this week.

SUCCESS'S SUCCESS IS "SILVER KING"

English melodrama as exemplified in "The Silver King" and played by the Empire Stock Company has proved the principal success of the season at this house. Both of yesterday's performances, like all of those of last week, were attended by audiences limited only by the capacity of the auditorium. The players have entered into this production in a way that has given the best possible effect to its leading scenes.

The gentle scene of the return of Denver after he has become known as the Silver King, is made a thrilling picture of the production by the clever work of the dozen or more children engaged. Marie Hall, Howell Hansel, Frank Losee, Zedie Tilney and William Hasson have added distinct triumphs to their record in this production.

Next Monday the Empire Stock Company will be seen in an elaborate production of Sardou's great melodrama "La Tosca," with Mary Hall in the title part.

"FANTANA" GROWS BETTER WITH AGE

"Fantana," Boston's only musical show at present, grows in popularity with each successive performance. It is the hit of the season at the Boston Theatre, where the night it entered upon its third week it has but one of the engagement. Jefferson De Angelis and Toby Claude are a hit in "Fantana," which is the best thing they have had in Boston.

One thing about "Fantana," that is altogether unusual in the line of musical shows, and that is perhaps as much responsible for its popularity as its amusing qualities, is the fact that it improves from act to act, the best being the last act.

"FAUST" IS AGAIN GIVEN ELABORATELY

"Faust," that play that immortalized its author and has proven one of the great est of spectacular productions, won favor at the Bowdoin Square Theatre again yesterday. The garden scene is magnificent, with an abundance of flowers, pleasing lights and electrical effects. The famous Brocken scene is very picturesque and impressive.

Charlotte Hunt makes a charming Marguerite. Charles Miller is satisfying as Faust. Thad. Gray as Mephisto is the best he has been in Boston intelligently and cleverly. Wilmer Walter as Valentine, Miss Hale, Miss Annette Bishop, Miss Butler and Miss Henry Alexander, Harry Brooks, Miss Wheeler, Lawrence Russell and other favorite ones are also very faithful in their work.

ARE TO GIVE REAL FRENCH BALL HERE

French dancers in "The Champagne Dance," which made such a hit in "The Silver Slipper," will be the chief feature at the French ball, to be given by La Societe des Joyeux Vieours Parisiens, at Odd Fellows' Hall, Tuesday evening. The grand march will be led by Mlle. Parquet, winner of the prize at the French ball in New York. Handsome prizes are to be awarded to the most beautiful lady dancer, to the most graceful couple and to many others. This is to be a "real" French ball.

"Satan trembles when he sees
The weakest saint upon his knees."

Well may our frenzied financiers, our insurance-grafters, political grafters, parasites of all sorts—well may they tremble when they see the aroused American public resolutely ask itself "What is our share of the profits of our railroads, street-cars, gas, water, electric light and power, coal, copper-, gold-fields?

Read Russell's "Soldiers of the Common Good" in Everybody's for January—how private ownership of public belongings is losing its hold in Europe.

Everybody's Magazine 15 cents a year $1.50

Special representatives wanted for Everybody's Magazine in towns where are no dealers.

NEW YEAR BILL AT KEITH'S IS THE STANDARD

Three of the Acts Make Up a Whole Show by Themselves.

MANY REAL NOVELTIES

There were three acts, one after the other, at Keith's yesterday which, individually, were worth going far to see. They made up a whole show by themselves. These were Taylor Holmes, the monologue comedian and imitator, recently with the "Stronger" company; the double sextette of colored singers and dancers in their song story of Dixie called "Sunny South," and the Quigley Brothers in their comedy musical comedy, "A Congressional Inquiry." If there was nothing else on the bill these would have sufficed to make yesterday afternoon's entertainment.

Taylor Holmes is fortunate anybody. That impersonation of Mansfield is a classic. He must have rehearsed with John Bernard he knows his traits so well. As a comedian he is a star, and he proves it successfully at the close of the sketch in a serious story of a Chinese laundryman.

The "Sunny South" is chock full of colored fun. There are eccentric steps, eccentric singing, eccentric dancing, eccentric laughter. May Wilson Hite's colored people can dance!

The three women suffer at the hands of the Quigley Brothers, but they enjoy their suffering, for their tormentors take care of how ills wife was killed by the trolley car in Boston, and how Mrs. Quigley escaped by the laughter which they cannot help.

There are a number of acts new to the Keith's circuit on the bill, and one or two favorites which have returned. Frank Gardner and Lottie Vincent have a real novelty in the spectacular fantasy, "Looking for a Queen," giving some ideas no one has thought of before. Orrin Bebe, Jr., has added as a European violinist and xylophonist, was really talented. The singing sketch by Burton and Brooks was good except for the fact that neither one could sing.

Reeves and Quinn, singers and dancers; Fred and Annie Pelot, juvenile jugglers, who are very clever; Keno's minute dog Bessen; the Pleshant troupe of acrobats—all were excellent. Then there were the dog and monkey circus of Wormwood, including the dog who multiplies cards and proves himself an expert mathematician; the Bonnets in a unique musical specialty; Harry Brown, crayon artist, and vocalists and Francis Wood, banjo picker and juggler. In point of fact the show at Keith's this week can be used as a standard all through the year, and will rarely be equalled.

JACK O'BRIEN AT PALACE THEATRE

Philadelphia Jack O'Brien, the vanquisher of Bob Fitzsimmons and holder of two championship titles, the middleweight championship and the light heavyweight championship, is the star feature at the Palace Theatre this week. He appears at every performance with Robbie Knieker, Hooker Barlowgues, one of the best acrobat companies ever sent upon the road to play the burlesque houses. O'Brien has taken on weight, and is one of the fastest men that ever stepped into a ring. He aspires to the championship of the world.

The entertainment by Robbie Knieker, hockers is excellent, and consists of the latest edition of "Robbie's Speech," a funny comedy with which this company won success on the road last season. It has several musical farce, replete with bright lines and clever situations. The cast includes Pete Curtis, Oscar Lewis, Belle Witten and Alleene Vincent.

Cured Forty Consumptives

The Post-Graduate Hospital of New York reports that more than forty cases of consumption were cured by that institution alone during the year 1904. Many of these cases were treated at the homes of the patients. This proves conclusively that consumption can be cured and cured at home. Not every one can go to Colorado or spend weeks or months in a hospital, neither of which is necessary, but everybody can get Scott's Emulsion, and that IS necessary. It has been proved that pure, fresh air, light exercise, nourishing food and will come pretty near curing any case of consumption if there is anything to build on. Thousands of people have been restored to health by Scott's Emulsion alone. The advantages of Scott's Emulsion over the plain oil are shown in the ease with which Scott's Emulsion is accepted and retained by the stomach; the quickness with which it passes into the system; its almost immediate benefit to the affected organs, and its absolute uniformity of quality and purity.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

Scott & Bowne
409 PEARL STREET
NEW YORK

ITCH! ITCH!! ITCH!!!
SCRATCH! SCRATCH!! SCRATCH!!!
This is the condition of thousands of skin-tortured men, women, and children who may be instantly relieved and speedily cured by warm baths with CUTICURA SOAP and gentle applications of CUTICURA OINTMENT, the great Skin Cure.
ADVERTISE YOUR WANT IN THE BOSTON AMERICAN.

Save Your Dollars Trade at Moller's
House Furnisher
LAFAYETTE SQ., CAMBRIDGEPORT

FINANCIAL.
NOTICE.
It is my duty to let it be known that certain stock brokers' steps and a certain news bureau, in an endeavor to secure clients, have represented I was financially interested in their business. I herewith give notice that are such statements are false.
If any have moved from their money upon such representations they have been misled, and I will upon the facts being submitted to me in writing, correct any matter free of charge.
THOMAS W. LAWSON.
Boston, Jan. 2, 1906.

DOCKSTADER HAS FUN WITH THE SCREEN LAW

Makes Moran, Lawson, Cole and Others Butt of Jokes in the "Rubberneck Hack."

"On the left we see the greatest steel company in the world—the Equitable Life.

"Coming out of the Equitable Life you will notice Hyde. What is Hyde, you say? Hyde is a skin.

"There you see Depew. He used to be a 'Business Boom' and but lately it is 'The said Chauncey Depew.'

"Boston is going to have cheaper gas and still pretty soon. Thirty cents for gas and sixty cents for hot air.

"On the right is Ward's where nobody knows what their politics are until Lomasney gives the signal.

"Here we have Beacon Hill. The new legislature meets Wednesday, and Jerry Mahoney is going to introduce a bill and ask to have it passed at once.

"And here, on our right, is the headquarters of the State police. That notice you hear is Chief Stone snoring.

"Now we are overlooking the Fenway improvements. There you see the most expensive machine in the world—Donovan's pitch.

"We are now passing Faneuil Hall. Here the Americus and Commonwealth are holding a meeting. They are expelling a man who is said to have sold out and gone into the Essex House bar-room.

"Here are the offices of the Boston Home-Touraine, Parker's and Young's hotels. Here you see a man who has taken $25,000 for a bronze statue of John Morgan. When he got the money down they are going to put a screen around the statue, and then he will have to take off his coat and roll over to watch the statue.

"Here you see the man that Tom Lawson is going to have Judge Emmons' place! He is going to have a cage around the judge, anyway. He should give Clarence Darrow a job.

These and many more formed part of the fun-fest which convulsed the Majestic Theatre last evening, when Lew Dockstader's minstrels opened a two weeks' engagement. It was a fun-fest from beginning to end, and many men things with him. It is safe to say that he hits sing "Everybody Works but Father," and he sure has brought make-up, gallery gods week, singing the chorus while he dresses in the entire company. The opening, those in the orchestra, boxes, bal-

SOUTHERN TWILIGHT BROUGHT TO BOSTON

There are many New Englanders who find it impossible to go to the South in the cold days of Winter, but for the stay-at-homes a big treat is in store, for the footlight is brought vividly to Boston by the production of "Darkies," in which William Gillette is appearing at the Castle Square.

It is his return to America after a prolonged engagement in London. The performance last evening marked the opening of the theatre's farewell week here, and the audience was just as large as it has been during the entire run of the first week. It is a great triumph for Mr. Gillette both as author and actor, and he will take its place among his master pieces.

Marie Doro is a revelation as the daintiest, prettiest and most lovable of all negro mammys. Adelaide Prince, Francis Powers, Frederick Sanborn and Charles Bowser all share in the honors. There will be extra matinees of "Darkies" in all next week, while Mr. Gillette plays in the tremendous success which has been scored in Boston.

AMUSEMENTS.

TREMONT THEATRE
"Keeps Everybody Laughing"—Keene.
MATINEE TOMORROW
HENRY W. SAVAGE'S
MERRY HOLIDAY OFFERING
RAYMOND HITCHCOCK
In the New Farce
The GALLOPER
By RICHARD HARDING DAVIS
Evenings at 8. Carriages at 10:45
Matinees Wednesday and Saturday at 2

Majestic THEATRE
Evenings at 8
Matinee Tomorrow
LEW DOCKSTADER AND HIS GREAT
Minstrels
70 People
A Bigger, Better and Busier Minstrel Show, in a Bigger, Better and Busier City.
Popular Concert Sunday

EMPIRE THEATRE
Tel. Oxford 70.
Empire Stock Co., Limited.
SECOND AND LAST WEEK
Of the Great English Melodrama
THE SILVER KING
Today at 2 and 8 P. M.
Prices: 25c, 35c, 50c, 75c.
Second Balcony for Ladies Only, 15c.
Children under 12 years of age, 25c at matinees when accompanied by adults.
Special Prices for Saturday Matinee.
Next Week—LA TOSCA.

PARK THEATRE
Last 5 Nights S. Nats. Wed. & Sat. 2
Charles Frohman Presents
JOSEPH WHEELOCK, Jr.
GEORGE ADE'S Roaring Success
OUT OF COLLEGE
With BLANCHE WALSH | THE MAYAN | IN THE PASS

Castle Sq.
Down-Town Office, 15 Winter St.
TO-DAY at 2 and 8 P. M.
Beechdale Tyler's London Version of
OLIVER TWIST
Jno. S.—Second Week of Oliver Twist

GRAND OPERA HOUSE
MATINEE TODAY
Main Floor, Thurs., Sat. at 2
A WIFE'S SECRET
Evenings at 8 | The Thrilling Emotional Success
Prices 25c, 50c, 75c, Matn. 25c, 50c.
Next Week—"A Race for Life."

PARK SQUARE ROLLER SKATING RINK
Open Daily—Morning, Afternoon, Evening.
TONIGHT—Fancy Skating Contest.
Price 25c to Everybody.

PALACE
JACK O'BRIEN
And
KNICKERBOCKER BURLESQUERS.
GRAND SMOKING CONCERTS.
Prices—10—20—25. Tel. 2150 Hancock.

GLOBE Evening Prices, 25c, 50c, 75c
Mats. Wed., Sat. Mats., 25c.
Last Week Matinee Today
UNDER SOUTHERN SKIES
Mats. Wed., Sat. Mats., 25c.
Next Week—Nights, 25-50c. Concerts.

BOWDOIN SQUARE THEATRE
Every Afternoon at 2. Evening at 8.
FAUST
Any seat in the House 25c.
NEXT WEEK—Robert Emmet.

LYCEUM HARRY BRYANT'S COMPANY
Today 2:15 & 8. Prices 25c, 50c, 75c. Tel. 20 Oxford.

EVERYDAY LIFE IN MELODRAMA

Combining the beautiful sentiment, humor and pathos of Poe with the quaint character drawing of Dickens and the thrilling interest of a Drury Lane melodrama, "A Wife's Secret," which came to the Grand Opera House yesterday for a week's run has plenty of interest in it. It is a story of every-day life, picturing real people.

There is the beautiful, girlish wife, falsely accused and disowned; the unconscientious husband, the two children of good old "colored mammy," the deep-dyed villain, and the "comic relief" are there, woven together in a natural and thrilling way. It is indeed a thriller. Virginia Thornton plays the part of the young wife. It is a difficult part, but she does it admirably. Mrs. Charles G. Craig, who appeared so heartily for the benefit of the AMERICAN'S readers on New Year's Day, played the old, faithful colored mammy to the very life. All the others in the big company are suited to their tasks and the piece makes up one of the best and most interesting of the season. Matinees are given Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday as usual.

AMUSEMENTS.

BOSTON THEATRE
LAWRENCE McCARTY.... Lessee & Manager
EVENINGS AT 7:45 SHARP
LAST WEEK BUT ONE
The Only Big Musical Show in Town
SAM. S. and LEE SHUBERT Present
JEFFERSON De ANGELIS OPERA COMPANY
In the Great Success of the Season
FANTANA
DON'T MISS IT
MATINEES WED. & SAT.

Mechanics Building
SPECIAL TODAY
FEATURES At 1 and 8:30
The Complete Series of Biographic Motion Pictures of the Late President William McKinley.
Also Other Great Motion Pictures and Trick Films, Including Those Shown in the Main Hall.
Fly Casting Exhibitions Daily
Rods, Casting Tournament at 2 P. M. Prizes Awarded for Accuracy. Friday at 8 P. M.

SPORTSMEN'S SHOW
Tomorrow Afternoon at 1
Prof. N. B. WOOD
Tomorrow Evening at 8
Prof. R. T. FISHER
Casting, Fly and Bait Rods, Reels, Lines, Etc., will speak in Public Interest.
Rods, Reels, Baskets and Boxes of Exhibitors Half Price.
Admission, Adults, 25c. Children, 10c.
Opens Daily at 10 A. M.
Admission, 50c. Children Under 12, 25c.

Begin The New Year With a Laugh
Ladies' Matinees Daily. Public Washington Street Telephone Service Particularly Attractive Matinee Today at 2 P. M. Admission 10c. Evenings 10c and 20c. Matinees not necessary.
There is a host of Merriment and Mirth at the Theatre Comique
Keith Program This Week.

COLONIAL THEATRE
LAST 5 NIGHTS. TONIGHT at 8
CHARLES FROHMAN PRESENTS
WILLIAM GILLETTE
In His New Comedy Drama,
"CLARICE"
EXTRA MAT. TOMORROW at 2
REGULAR MATS. SAT. at 2.
Mon., Jan. 8—EDNA MAY, in "The Catch of the Season." Seats Now on Sale.

HOLLIS ST. THEATRE
ISAAC B. RICH.... Proprietor & Manager
Evenings at 8. Sat. Matinee at 2.
CHARLES FROHMAN Presents
JOHN DREW
In His Greatest French Triumph
De LANCEY
By Augustus Thomas
A Great Opening Bill for the Hollis Direct from N. Y.

HOWARD ATHENÆUM TODAY
Charles the Marvel, the only woman bicyclist, the world's greatest sensation. Harry Le Clair, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Thorne & Co., Desmond and Smith, Floral and Florette and Camille and Pondo, Geo. H. Diamond, Ward and Russell, Clark and Florette, Hope and Koppe, Miles and Raymond, Burkhardt and Berry, Bert Thorne and company in "An Uptown Flat."

HEARST'S BOSTON AMERICAN

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST

80 AND 82 SUMMER ST., BOSTON, JANUARY 2, 1906.

English Idiots to Populate Ireland

If That Is Not the Limit of Outrage, Pray Tell Us What IS?

Since the days of Cromwell, the English have invited and EARNED the dislike of the Irish people.

They have murdered them, misgoverned them, robbed them in taxes, persecuted them for their religion—it would seem as though they really hadn't forgotten any cowardly thing that a bigger people could do to a smaller people.

But THEY, IT SEEMS, HAD FORGOTTEN SOMETHING, AND NOW WE HEAR ABOUT IT.

The Rev. Mr. Watts—Ditchfield—is an English clerical gentleman who has been devoting his life to the London poor—that's how the news reads.

This reverend gentleman, who has the ear of the government, is interested, with General Booth, of the Salvation Army, and some others, in getting rid of the incompetent population of London.

John Burns—himself of Celtic origin, a real workman and the first labor member of the British Parliament—points out the fact that in the mob of London unemployed, there are a good many drunkards, loafers and degenerates.

The reverend clergyman and others add that in addition to drunkards and loafers there are a great many semi-idiots and congenital criminals among the population of the London slums now occupying public attention.

What do you suppose the scheme is at present? The worthless "wastrels," the gin-soaked, hopeless criminals and worthless vagabonds of Whitechapel "are to be colonized in the sparsely populated parts of Ireland."

How does that strike you? Was there ever a more impertinent, vicious suggestion made?

The reverend gentleman who is enthusiastic about sending the degenerates to live in Ireland says it is better to send them there than to Australia—BECAUSE THE AUSTRALIANS WON'T LET THEM IN.

It is the general opinion in England now that Ireland WILL HAVE TO LET THEM IN.

If this suggestion to poison the splendid Irish race with an injection of vicious, drunken, criminal derelicts from Whitechapel is not the absolute final climax to misrule in Ireland, what is it?

With every kind of brutality and misgovernment the ruling powers of England have driven out of Ireland her best young men and her best young women.

The best blood of Ireland has been sent to all the foreign countries, driven away from the land that it should have developed and made glorious among the nations.

How shameful and degrading is this suggestion to poison, with criminals and degenerates, the brave, long-suffering nation that has been bled white by misgovernment during long centuries!

Fortunately it is not conceivable that the revolting, shameful plan will be carried out. An effort to do so will arouse the fury of the Irish people and the violent opposition of their representatives in the English Parliament. There will be found manhood enough to make impossible the most villainous scheme that has ever been proposed by a civilized nation.

First the Cattle, Then the Children —PERHAPS

Here's a piece of news. Read it.

The cattle on the Dominion experimental farms at Nappan, Nova Scotia, that have developed tuberculosis are not to be slaughtered. Dr. Rutherford, veterinary inspector-general, has recommended that experiments be made in the hope of eradicating the disease by the fresh-air cure.

It seems that we are making progress. The custom has been, when cattle showed signs of tuberculosis, to get them die, or, if government agents got hold of them, to shoot them.

There has been some improvement in plans and methods, according to the statements above. People know that fresh air WILL cure tuberculosis—if you add rest and sufficient food to the fresh air. Therefore THE CATTLE in Nova Scotia are to get the benefit of scientific discovery.

It would be an excellent thing, wouldn't it, if our city and national governments could look at the children as the government in Nova Scotia looks at tuberculous cattle?

There are hundreds of thousands of children marching rapidly along the road to consumption and death. For one COW afflicted with tuberculosis the number of HUMAN BEINGS is many. With the tuberculous children, in our crowded slums, we are still pursuing the old method—we let them die.

Civilization hasn't the moral courage to shoot them, end their misery and prevent the spreading of the disease. So they are allowed to die slowly, while the landlords of the damp, dark, foul tenements collect their rents, and the city government leaves the streets dirty, and the elevated railroads crowd out the light and sun, and the adulterators of food destroy what little hope there might be of recovery.

The children of the tenements, like the cattle of Nova Scotia, COULD be cured by fresh air—and there is PLENTY OF IT in the country. They could be cured by good food—and there is plenty of that in the land. Enough food is wasted every year to fill with health and vigor all the little consumptive children. And there is no REAL reason why the little sick children should not recover, with food, air, sunlight and REST, if they could get away from the noise and the dampness, the filth and the poisoned food and the make-believe milk.

It would be creditable to civilization if a great, rich city, with hundreds of millions of property and hundreds of millionaires, should do as much for a tuberculous child as Nova Scotia proposes to do for its tuberculous cows.

But let us not be idiotically optimistic, or cynically critical.

A cow has cash VALUE. If you give it fresh air and food and heal up its tuberculous lungs, you can sell it for $35 or keep it and sell its milk for four cents a quart.

Whereas if you heal the tuberculous lungs of a child, feed it, rest it, give it fresh air, what can you sell it for? NOTHING.

Civilization is, for some time to come, science and civilization will take care of cows and let tuberculous children take care of themselves, which we have reached in civilization so far. You see progress, in spite of the nation's patriotic

THE SECOND OF JANUARY

BACK WRETCHES!- I AM DONE WITH YOU FOREVER
FOILED!- BUT OUR TIME WILL COME!
MR. AVERAGEMAN
I HEREBY PLEDGE MYSELF NOT TO DRINK, SMOKE NOR PLAY POKER FOR ONE YEAR
Fopper

And the Villains Still Pursue Him

RHYMO THE MONK

Copyright, 1906, by American-Journal-Examiner

I BROUGHT THIS PARROT HOME WITH ME, I SAW IT IN A STORE TO-DAY;— I KNEW, MY DEAR YOU WANTED ONE TO HELP YOU PASS THE TIME AWAY!
A SPINSTER OWNED HIM LAST, TO WHOM A COMFORT AND A FRIEND WAS HE; AND SO I THOUGHT I'D PURCHASE HIM AND LET HIM BE THE SAME TO ME!
HE'S WELL-BEHAVED AND GENTLE, TOO, THE DEALER AT THE BIRD-STORE SAID, HE KNOWS NOT HOW TO CURSE NOR SWEAR NOR WAKE THE NEIGHBORS OUT OF BED!
BLANK!! BLANK! BLANKETT BLANK!
Gus Mager

The Parrot Did Not Swear—Oh, No! The Honest Dealer Told Him So.

Ella Wheeler Wilcox

The Lady and the Dame

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, 1906, by American-Journal-Examiner.

SO, thou hast the art, good dame, thou swearest,
To keep Time's perishing touch at bay,
From the roseate splendor of the cheek so tender,
And the silver threads from the gold away,
And the tell-tale years that have hurried by us
Shall tiptoe back, and, with kind good will,
They shall take the traces from off our faces,
If we will trust to thy magic skill.

Thou speakest fairly, but if I listen
And buy thy secret, and prove its truth,
Hast thou the potion and magic lotion
To give me also the heart of youth?
With the cheek of rose and the eye of beauty,
And the lustrous locks of life's lost prime,
Wilt thou bring thronging each hope and longing
That made the glory of that dead time?

When the sap in the trees sets young buds bursting,
And the song of the birds fills the air like spray,
Will rivers of feeling come once more stealing
From the beautiful hills of the far-away?
Will thou demolish (:) tower of reason
And fling forever down into the dust
The caution Time brought me, the lessons life taught me,
And put in their places the old sweet trust?

If Time's footprint from my brow is driven,
Canst thou, too, take with thy subtle powers
The burden of thinking, and let me go drinking
The careless pleasures of youth's bright hours?
If silver threads from my tresses vanish,
If a glow once more in my pale cheek gleams,
Wilt thou slay duty and give back the beauty
Of days untroubled by aught but dreams?

When the soft, fair arms of the siren Summer
Encircle the earth in their languorous fold
Will vast, deep oceans of sweet emotions
Surge through my veins as they surged of old?
Canst thou bring back from a day long vanished
The leaping pulse and the boundless aim?
I will pay thee double for all thy trouble
If thou wilt restore all these, good dame.

Alas, the Poor Hen!

By Isaac Anderson

ALAS, the poor hen! She is no longer to be allowed to lay eggs when and where it pleases her.

Professor Jaffa, nutrition expert at the State University of California, is going to make her work according to schedule.

She is to have no vacation, not even during the moulting period.

Just how Professor Jaffa is going to accomplish this I am not at liberty to state. It wouldn't be fair to the professor, I suppose, and, besides, I don't know. That, however, is a mere detail of interest chiefly to the hen.

Professor Jaffa will, of course, be hailed as a public benefactor—one who has caused two or more eggs to be laid where one was laid before. And no doubt the professor means well by his fellowmen.

No more will a failure of the egg crop make countless millions mourn. Eggs will be cheap, perhaps so cheap that we can save enough on them to enable the Meat Trust to charge us a little more for the accompanying bacon.

But what of the hen? Where does she come in? Does she get her salary raised? Is the quantity or the quality of her feed to be improved?

Probably not, unless, perhaps, that is part of the treatment. But that is not likely. It would not be in keeping with the spirit of the times.

Who ever heard of increasing a laborer's wages with a view of making him more efficient? Absurd! Unless, of course, he happens to be president of an insurance company.

But, then, he wouldn't be a laboring man, indeed! He might be a worker, however.

But let us return to our hens. Speaking of hens, there was a man once who thought he could make money raising chickens. He had it all figured out; the census returns, or, perhaps, it was the Encyclopaedia Britannica, told him just how many eggs the average hen produced per annum, and how many of these eggs could be reasonably expected to hatch. According to the figures he would get rich so fast that it would be positively sinful. So in order to be conservative, he cut the profits in half. Even at that he could run Standard Oil a close second.

All this was before he took up the sordid, practical details of the business. But after he got his chicken ranch all fixed up and got the chickens installed in their new quarters he found that things did not turn out exactly as he had expected. The hens did not lay as many eggs as an average hen should. Furthermore, when the chicks hatched out, a great many of them turned out to be roosters. All of which is very annoying when you have been figuring on so many eggs per bird.

But, of course, Professor Jaffa will remedy all that.

When he does the chicken business will really be as profitable as thousands of us have imagined it to be, before bitter experience made us wise. But, alas, the poor hen!

Din Kelspielers

By George V. Hobart

LUCK vas a good ding to trust in —if you ain'd got much of a appetite.

* * *

Dare vas few men vich can keep dare troubles to demselfs. Dot is vy ve haf so many policemans.

* * *

Peoples mit goot memories may be wiser, but peoples mit goot forgeteries haf more happiness.

* * *

Success is vot ve do for ourselfs; failure is vot der udder fellow dit for us.

* * *

Always pick ould a restaurant ven you sit down to vait for someding to turn up.

* * *

To-morrow is dec only day in der year dot appeals to a lazy man.

D. DINKELSPIEL,
Per George V. Hobart.

MR. E. Z. MARK MAKES A PURCHASE

Copyright, 1905, by American-Journal-Examiner.

1. VOICE OVER THE 'PHONE—Is that you, Mark? This is Stubbubs. Say, Mark, I've got a chance to get a barge load of coal at five dollars a ton. Barge (illegible) is stuck and must get away at (illegible). There's a hundred tons, both sizes, (illegible) you go in for half with me? Spot cash.

2. MR. MARK—Sure I will. I can't miss such a snap as that. Many thanks for the opportunity.
VOICE OVER THE 'PHONE—All right. I'll send my man right up to your office. Have the money ready. Mind, no check. It must be ready cash.

3. THE MAN (rushing in)—Mr. Mark, I have been sent up by Mr. Stubbubs to——
MR. MARK—Yes; the money for that lot of coal. Here it is, sir, all ready for you. Two hundred and fifty dollars. Ah, I see you have brought the receipt! Tell Mr. Stubbubs I am greatly obliged to him.

4. MR. SUBBUBS (as he meets Mr. Mark on the way home)—COAL! A barge load! You took half with me! Rent me two hundred and fifty dollars? Why, Mark, I never (illegible) didn't telephone you. By Jove! old man, some one has put a game up on you. You've been buncoed again.